the country surrounding Baton Rouge, crossing the Amite River at a point not previously reached by our forces. Information was thus obtained, in consequence of which Lieutenant Earl, with a small force, captured several citizens of the county, including one colonel and two captains, with their horses and equipments.

"On the 11th of October, companies I and K, Captain Graiger commanding, were detached for duty along the left bank of the Mississippi River, from Baton Rouge to opposite Donaldsonville, to prevent contraband trade, protect navigation and telegraphic communications, carry dispatches, etc., and have done excellent service, seized large quantities of goods intended for the enemy, and captured eighty-five contraband soldiers, with a loss of eight men taken prisoners and two wounded. They have recently constructed an excellent defense to their post, called Highland Blockade. On the 20th of October, company A was detached for the post of Plaquemine, for duty as escorts, pickets, couriers, etc., where they remained until the 24 of February, 1864, at which date, they were relieved by company M. They captured twelve rebel soldiers without loss.

"Since the campaign early, the regiment has been constantly active in scouting, picketing and foraging; its operations having generally been in the country lying between the Comite, Amite and Mississippi rivers, extending far south as Manchac Pass, though parties have frequently been ten and fifteen miles beyond the Comite, thirty and forty miles from Baton Rouge. They have been most successful, having several times captured nearly their number of the enemy, mules and wagons, and have averaged one rebel prisoner each day for five months, having taken in all over one hundred and fifty, exclusive of those captured by detached companies, with a loss of one killed, four wounded and seventeen prisoners.

"Two expeditions have been to Hornsville, on Bayou Grosse Tête. The first, commanded by Colonel Chambers, started from Baton Rouge on the 4th of February, at first o'clock A. M., on a dark Black night, consisting of sixty-six cavalry, and thirty-six infantry; by daylight landed at Donaldsonville, and thence took the old plank road, crossing the lake and Bayou Thomas, reaching Hornsville at seven A. M., rested and captured the rebels there, then crossed Bayou Grosse Tête and proceeded nine miles up the right bank to Governor Johnson's plantation, returning at night to Hornsville. Saturday morning, they started for Baton Rouge, and reached camp at four in the afternoon, with twelve rebel soldiers, including one major, one captain and one lieutenant, and many guns, horses, mules, etc. The second, composed of one hundred and fifty cavalry, Captain Keefe commanding, left Baton Rouge at five in the morning of the 15th of February, on the steamer John Warren, landed at Donaldsonville, twelve miles above, and from that point took a most difficult road, through a low and cypress wood to Hornsville, reaching there at noon; then followed the left bank of Bayou Grossetete three miles to Lieutenant Slack's plantation, where they seized horses, cattle and mules, and at four in the afternoon, bivouacked three miles farther down on the right bank of the bayou, until midnight of the 20th, when they started towards Plaquemine by way of Indian Village, with one hundred and fifty beeves, twenty mules, twelve horses and four rebel prisoners. As they started, the rebels opened fire from across the bayou, with hideous yells, which was most vigorously returned, with good effect, killing four and wounding several, with the loss of but three horses and one mule. Indian Village was reached before daylight, but, with flatboat transportation, they were occupied until ten o'clock in crossing Bayou Plaquemine, and reached Plaquemine at noon. They took the steamer Iberville and arrived at Baton Rouge at six on the following afternoon."*

In the month of June, the regiment moved up the Mississippi forty miles to Morganzia, at which point they were stationed until the 9th of August, when they returned to Baton Rouge. Marching thence with the expedition to Clinton, La., forty miles distant, they took part on the 26th in the skirmish near that place, with a loss of one officer and fourteen men, wounded. Having occupied Clinton a short time, they returned to Baton Rouge and went into camp.

The Fourth cavalry, accompanying General Lee's command, which consisted of the Eleventh New York, Second Illinois, Sixth Missouri and Fourth Wisconsin, cavalry, and the First Wisconsin battery, marched on the 6th of October, 1864, from Baton Rouge to Clinton, La., accomplishing the distance of forty miles within six hours. On arriving in the vicinity of the place, Major Craigue, with fifty men of the Fourth, and the same number from other regiments, dashed into the town, in advance of the main column, and captured a colonel, several line officers and twenty-eight enlisted men; the rebel commander, General Hodge, narrowly escaping. Next day, the expedition marched thirty miles to Greensburg, La., and returning on the 8th, Major Craigue's command of one hundred men was "bushwhacked" on the Amite River, sustaining a loss of Lieutenant Chase, badly, and Sergeant Pygall of company B, mortally, wounded. They encamped for the night six miles from Greenwell Springs, and on the 9th, reached Baton Rouge, where they remained until the 7th of November, at which date, companies D and F, under command of Major Craigue, were detached from the regiment, under orders to re-establish a post at Highland Stockade.

As a portion of an expedition to Liberty and Brookhaven, Miss., under the command of General A. L. Lee, the regiment, accompanying the Second cavalry brigade, left Baton Rouge on the eve-followed the left bank of Bayou Grosseteta three miles to Lieutenant Blanch's plantation, where they seized horses, mules and mules, and at four in the afternoon, dismounted three miles further down on the right bank of the bayou, until midnight of the 22d, when they started towards Tangipahoa by way of Indian Village, with one hundred and fifty beeves, twenty mules, twelve horses and four rebel prisoners. As they started, the rebels opened fire from across the bayou, with hideous yells, which was most vigorously returned, with good effect, killing four and wounding several, with the loss of but three horses and one mule. Indian Village was reached before daylight, but, with fatiguing transportation, they were occupied until six o'clock in crossing Bayou Papaquasine, and reached Papaquasine at noon. They took the steamer Iberville and arrived at Baton Rouge at six on the following afternoon.*

In the month of June, the regiment moved up the Mississippi forty miles to Morganza, at which point they were stationed until the 8th of August, when they returned to Baton Rouge, distributing themselves with the expedition to Clinton, La., forty miles distant. They took part on the 23d in the skirmish near that place, with a loss of one officer and fourteen men, wounded. Having occupied Clinton a short time, they returned to Baton Rouge and met into camp.

The Fourth cavalry, accompanying General Lee's command, which consisted of the Eighteenth New York, Second Illinois, Sixth Missouri and Fourth Wisconsin, cavalry, and the First Wisconsin battery, marched on the 6th of October, 1863, from Baton Rouge to Clinton, La., accomplishing the distance of forty miles within six hours. On arriving in the vicinity of Greenwood, Miss., with fifty men of the Fourth, and the same number of other regiments, dashed into the town, in advance of the main column, and captured a colonel, several line officers and twenty-eight enlisted men; the rebel commander, General Gardner, narrowly escaping. Next day, the expedition moved forty miles to Clinton, La., and encamping on the 8th, Major Strauss a command of one hundred men was "transhipped" on the Amite River, instituting a line of intrenchments, Lieut. and Brevet Capt. Pegel of company B, mortally wounded. They remained for the eight miles from Greenwell Springs, and on the 10th, reached Baton Rouge, where they remained until the 7th of November, at which time, companies D and K, under command of Major Crispen, were detached from the regiment, under orders to establish a post at Pilgrimage Station.

As a portion of an expedition to Liberty and Fredericksburg, Miss., under the command of General A. L. Lee, the regiment, accompanying the Second cavalry brigade, left Baton Rouge on the afternoon ning of the 14th of November, and bivouacked in the woods near Port Hudson, from midnight of the 14th until daylight on the morning of the 16th, when they made a forced march towards Liberty. At Camp Beauregard, twenty-six miles from Liberty, on the Comite River, the Fourth Wisconsin in advance, surprised about four hundred rebels and captured nearly all their arms, camp equipage and stores, with fifty prisoners and twenty horses. Lieutenant Flint, of company G, by a gallant charge on that occasion, captured the pickets of the enemy, without alarming the camp. On the 17th, they reached Liberty, Miss., seventy miles from Baton Rouge, and next day, four hundred men of the regiment, under command of Major Craigue, effected a forced march of fifty miles to Brookhaven, Miss., where the enemy was surprised, and ten officers and fifty-nine men were captured, together with a steam engine and large quantities of subsistence stores. They also burned several confederate store-houses at this place, and rejoined the main column at Liberty on the 19th. On this day, a body of the enemy, four hundred strong, attacked the detachment remaining at Liberty, and having fought with great resolution for nearly three hours, was finally driven off. Our loss in this affair was eight wounded. The expedition commenced the return march on the 20th, and re-entered camp at Baton Rouge on the following day.

On the 27th of November, the regiment left Baton Rouge as a portion of the Pascagoula expedition, under command of General Davidson, and accompanying the Second brigade of the cavalry division, set out for the purpose of making a feint on the Mobile and Ohio railroad, with the object of preventing the rebel forces, then in the vicinity of Mobile, from moving to the assistance of General Hood.

Marching by way of Greensburg, they passed through Tangipaho, La., seventy miles from Baton Rouge, on the 30th, and encamped six miles beyond. A detachment of our regiment under Major Craigue, was the first to enter Tangipaho, where they captured several prisoners, and a considerable quantity of subsistence stores. On the 1st of December, they advanced twenty-eight miles to Franklinton, La., and moving forward with great difficulty from this place, through swamps where progress was almost impossible, they crossed Pearl River on pontoons, on the afternoon of the 4th. Marching thence by way of Columbia, Miss., and crossing the Black and Pascagoula Rivers, they arrived on the the 13th of December at West Pascagoula, Miss., on the Gulf of Mexico, about one hundred and forty miles from New Orleans, having marched three hundred miles from Baton Rouge.

While awaiting transportation, they were detained at Pascagoula until the 1st of January, 1865, when the first detachment was embarked on transports, for Lakeport, La. The last detachment reached this point on the 3d, when the regiment encamped at Carrollton. Next day they embarked at this place, and ascending the Mississippi River, landed on the evening of the 5th at Baton Rouge. On the 7th, companies D, E, F and G were detached from the regiment, and commenced the erection of a strong earthwork, seven miles from Baton Rouge, near Highland Stockade.

On the 1st of March, the regiment moved out with a cavalry expedition to Clinton, and on the following day, a detachment of the regiment was engaged with the enemy, near Olive Branch, sustaining a loss of three men killed, and Lieutenant Gleason and Sergeant Martin mortally wounded. They subsequently accompanied the expedition to Clinton, and on the 10th, returned to Baton Rouge.

On the 30th of March, they embarked at Baton Rouge, and landed next day at Carrollton, where the regiment was assigned to the First brigade, Seventh division of the cavalry corps. On the 4th, 5th and 6th of April, detachments of the regiment embarked at Lakeport, for Mobile Bay; the last detachment arriving on the 8th, at Starks' Landing, where the regiment was reunited. They moved on the 9th to Holyoke plantation, near Blakely, Ala., in which vicinity they remained, guarding the rear and the communications until the surrender of the fortifications defending Mobile. Early on the morning of the 18th of April, accompanying the northward movement of the cavalry corps, they left camp near Blakely, and crossing Escambia River on the following day, arrived on the 22d at Greenville, Ala. Resuming the march from this place on the 24th, they passed through Troy on the 26th, and Louisville on the following day; and crossing the Chattahoochee River on the 28th, encamped on the 30th at Georgetown, Ga., at which point the farther advance of the expedition was abandoned.

They left Georgetown on the 3d of May, and marching westward, arrived on the 8th at Montgomery, Ala. Resuming the movement on the 11th towards the Mississippi River, and marching by way of Kingston and Perryville, they encamped on the 14th near Centreville. They left Centreville on the 15th, and passing through Greenborough and Eutaw, crossed the Black Warrior River on the 17th; and marching by way of Pickensville, Ala., and Columbus, Miss., crossed the Tombigbee on the evening of the 20th of May. They remained in camp on the right bank of the Tombigbee until the 26th, when they were ordered to West Point, Miss., for the purpose of securing confederate cotton and stores. Detachments of the regiment were sent to Aberdeen, Okolona, and other points on and near the Mobile and Ohio railroad, but these were recalled on the 27th, in compliance with the orders of General Grierson, directing the regiment to start at once for Vicksburg. Marching on the following day, they proceeded by way of Kosciusko and Clear Creek, arriving at Vicksburg on the 5th of June.

They remained at Vicksburg, until the 26th of June, at which date, in obedience to orders to proceed to Texas, companies A, B, C and F embarked on transports, en route for Shreveport, La.,

The balance of the regiment embarked at Vicksburg on the 26th, and descending the Mississippi to Red River, ascended the latter stream to Shreveport, where they landed on the 2d of July, and encamped two and a half miles from the town, at Natt's Springs. On the 9th of July, the cavalry force, to which the Fourth Wisconsin was attached, left Shreveport, under command of General Merritt, and marching by way of Marshall, Austin and New Braunfels, arrived on the 2d of August, at San Antonio, Texas. Here the headquarters of the regiment remained until the 11th of October, when they marched westward, under orders to report to Major General Steele, for duty on the Rio Grande. Marching by way of Fort Ewell on the Neuces, and Fort McIntosh at Laredo, they arrived on the 2d of November at Ringgold Barracks, at which place they were assigned to the Second division of the Twenty-fifth army corps, General Jackson commanding.

While stationed at San Antonio, two expeditions, each under command of Lieutenant Colonel Craigue, were sent out into the country northwest of San Antonio, and were the first Union troops to penetrate west of that place. The first was ordered to Fort Inge, one hundred miles distant, to examine into its condition, and to confer with the Kickapoo and other Indian chiefs in the vicinity. The second advanced to Forts Ewell and Duncan, and Eagle Pass, two hundred miles from San Antonio. In this expedition, Captain Ramsay commanded a detachment, which scouted the country for a distance of fifty miles up the Neuces River.

On the Rio Grande, detachments of the regiment were stationed as follows: company C, under command of Captain Brooks, at Brownsville, on duty at General Weitzel's headquarters; company B, under command of Captain Baker, at Santa Maria, thirty-five miles; company F, under command of Captain Mower, at Los Guavas, one hundred miles; companies G and H, with headquarters of the regiment, Lieutenant-Colonel Craigue commanding, at Ringgold Barracks, one hundred and twenty miles; companies A and D, at Redmond's Ranche, one hundred and eighty miles, and company E, under command of Lieutenant Pixley, at Laredo, two hundred and forty miles from Brownsville. Courier stations were established at intervals of twenty miles, from Brownsville to Laredo, through which semi weekly mails were transmitted. Besides these duties, the regiment was employed in the enforcement of the revenue laws, with frequent scouting expeditions against Indians and other marauders.

On the 4th of December, a detachment from the troops stationed at Redmond's Ranche, and Laredo, under command of Captain Farnsworth, set out from Laredo, and having advanced to Eagle Pass, returned on the 21st to camp. Captain Hall, with his company, on the 10th of May, 1866, moved rapidly northward from Laredo, a distance of forty miles, in pursuit of a party of Indians, who had committed horrible murders and outrages upon the white settlers. Captain Hall failed to overtake the Indians, who had escaped across the Rio Grande into Mexico. In the beginning of May, a detachment of the regiment, under Captain Ramsay, then stationed at Half-way House, fifteen miles from Brownsville, encountered a party of Imperial soldiers, called contra-guerillas, who were in the act of crossing the river for the purpose of murder and theft. Upon their refusing to obey Captain Ramsay's orders to halt, they were fired upon, six of their number killed, and all their horses and equipments captured.

On the 3d of May, orders were received, directing the muster-out of the regiment, on account of its services being no longer required. The scattered detachments were at once ordered in, and on the 20th, by the arrival of the force from Laredo, the regiment was re-united at Brownsville.

The regiment was mustered out of service on the 28th of May, and on the 2d of June left Brownsville, en route for home. They embarked at Brazos Santiago on the 3d, touched at Galveston on the following day, and on the 7th reached New Orleans, La. Here they re-embarked next day, and ascending the Mississippi, arrived on the 14th at Cairo, Ill.

On the 16th of June, 1866, the Fourth veteran cavalry reached Madison, Wisconsin, where the regiment was shortly afterwards paid and formally disbanded.

"MILWAUKEE CAVALRY."

This company, recruited under the superintendence of Captain Gustav von Deutsch, of Milwaukee, during the months of July and August, 1861, left the state in September, for St. Louis, Mo., where the company, as an independent acceptance, was mustered into the United States' service on the 23d of September, 1861.

After serving a short time as body guard to General Fremont, the organization was incorporated, as company M, with the Fourth Missouri cavalry, with which regiment they served until mustered out of service.

No report was received from this company.

LIGHT ARTILLERY.

FIRST BATTERY.

The La Crosse Artillery, recruited and organized under the superintendence of Captain Jacob T. Foster, of La Crosse, was ordered to rendezvous at Camp Utley, Racine, early in October, 1861. The battery was mustered into the United States' service on the 10th of October, and remained at Camp Utley, without arms or equipments, except uniforms, until the 23d of January, 1862, when they left the state for field service, under orders to report at Louisville, Ky.

On their arrival, they were placed in camp of instruction, four miles from the city, where they were thoroughly equipped, and remained, acquiring drill and discipline, until the 3d of April, when they left Louisville, proceeding by rail to Lexington, Ky., on the Kentucky Central railroad. At this place the battery was attached to the Seventh division, commanded by General Morgan, and under his orders left Lexington on the 10th of April, taking part in the movement of his force towards Cumberland Gap. Proceeding by way of Cumberland Ford and Rogers' Gap, over a rough and difficult country, which had been pronounced impracticable for artillery; in many places hauling the heavy guns by hand over the steep and dangerous passes in the mountains, they occupied Cumberland Gap on the 18th of June, without opposition, the enemy having evacuated the fortifications on their approach. While on the march, Captain Foster was appointed division chief of artillery.

The battery participated in the battle of Tazewell, on the 6th of August; shortly after which, on the 16th, the enemy, 45,000 strong, formally invested the place. Having sustained a month's siege, the men during most of the time subsisting on quarter rations, Cumberland Gap was evacuated by the whole force on the 17th of September, when the retreat towards the Ohio commenced. After a laborious march of nearly two hundred miles, during which the troops suffered great hardships, they arrived on the 3d of October at Greenupsburg, Ky., at which place they forded the Ohio River, and proceeding by way of Portland and Gallipolis, arrived, on the 21st of November, at Cincinnati, O. Embarking at this place on the 26th, they moved down the river to Memphis, Tenn., where they joined General Sherman's forces. Participating in the movement against Vicksburg, they embarked on the 21st, and proceeding down the Mississippi, arrived at the mouth of Yazoo River on the 27th. Sailing up the Yazoo about ten miles, they disembarked in the evening, and marching a few miles across the country, took position in line, about three miles from the enemy's fortifications, on the northeast of Vicksburg.

They participated in several actions during this short siege, being stationed, during most of the time, near Chickasaw Bayou, from which place they embarked on the night of the 1st of January, 1863, proceeding up the Mississippi to the Arkansas River. Landing on the 10th, two miles below Arkansas Post, forty miles from the mouth of the Arkansas, peparations were immediately made to attack the enemy's works. On the following day, the right section, under Lieutenant Webster, took position about a thousand yards below the fort; the remaining sections, under Captain Foster, being placed on the other side of the river. During the cannonade which followed, lasting two hours, the right section reduced and destroyed the enemy's casemates in their front, silencing three heavy guns, and dismounting several smaller ones. They also blew up one of the enemy's caissons, and disabled his large barbette gun. The left section, meanwhile, enfiladed the rebel rifle-pits, doing great execution. In the afternoon an assault was ordered, and the garrison surrendered unconditionally.

Leaving Fort Hindman on the 14th of January, they returned to the mouth of the Yazoo, and disembarked on the 23d at Young's Point, La., where they went into camp. While stationed at this place, their good conduct called forth an order from the commanding general, of which the following is a copy:

"HEADQUARTERS, THIRTEENTH ARMY CORPS,"
Before Vicksburg, Feb. 28, 1863.

SPECIAL ORDERS
No. 295.

I. The commanding general has witnessed with pride the exemplary good conduct and discipline of both officers and privates of the First Wisconsin battery.

II. This to be read to the troops of the entire Thirteenth army corps at dress parade.

By order of Major General J. A. McClernand:

[Signed.] WALTER B. SCATES,
Lt. Col. and A. A. G. 13th army corps."

On the 8th of March, the battery embarked, and proceeding twenty miles up the river, encamped at Milliken's Bend, where they remained until the 5th of April, at which date they marched, taking part in the general movement of Grant's forces for the investment of Vicksburg. Having remained a week at Richmond, La., twelve miles from Milliken's Bend, march was resumed on the 13th, and proceeding by way of Holmes' and Smith's plantations, crossing Roundabout Bayou on the 19th, they encamped on the 22d at Perkins' plantation, on the Mississippi, below Vicksburg. Embarking on the 29th, the transports ran down the river to within five miles of Grand Gulf, and remained during the day, awaiting the result of an attack by our gunboats. Finding the boats were unable to silence the batteries, the troops were landed in the evening and marched to a point on the river below Grand Gulf, where the transports arrived during the night. Re-embarking on the following morning, they crossed the Mississippi, landing at Bruinsburg, Miss., near the mouth of Bayou Pierre. From this place they accompanied the advance towards Port Gibson. Having marched all night, the battery was ordered into position on the 1st of May, on Thompson's Hill, under a heavy fire of musketry. This position was retained during the day, with slight changes to the right and left to suit the range. In the afternoon, they dismounted four of the enemy's guns, which were posted to prevent General Osterhaus' advance on our left, and cut to pieces the celebrated "Virginia Battery." At sunset the victory of Anderson's Hill was complete and our reserves in full pursuit of the retreating enemy.

The First battery bivouacked on the field, the troops being worn out by fatigue, and on the following day, marched to Port Gibson. On the 3d, they crossed Bayou Pierre, on the bridge which the rebels in their flight had succeeded in only partially destroying, and proceeding by Willow Springs and Rocky Springs, encamped on the 7th at Big Sandy.

March was resumed on the 10th of May. Arriving at Raymond on the 14th, their direction was changed towards Jackson, but finding the enemy had retreated from that place, they returned through Raymond on the following day, overtaking the enemy at Champion Hills. Early on the 16th, they were in position, but owing to the nature of the ground, took no active part in the engagement. In the afternoon, they joined in the pursuit as far as Edward's Station, on the Vicksburg and Jackson railroad, where they bivouacked at eleven in the evening. At daybreak next morning, they advanced to Black River Bridge, the approaches to which the enemy had strongly fortified. The fortifications were carried at the point of the bayonet, and the battery encamped within five miles of Vicksburg, upon which place they opened fire on the 19th, and gradually advanced by regular approaches. They performed their whole duty during that celebrated siege, and on the 30th of June, we find the right section in position close to the Vicksburg and Jackson railroad, one hundred and fifty yards from the enemy's works; the left and centre sections, a mile south and a little farther from the enemy's lines.

Immediately after the surrender, on the 5th of July, they marched, in General Osterhaus' division, with the expedition against Jackson, opening fire on the 10th, upon the fortifications at that place. On the 12th, the right and centre sections were ordered to report to General Hovey, as his guns were too light to reach the town. These two sections accordingly moved to the right, and were placed in position; the right section on the Jackson and New Orleans railroad, the centre a quarter of a mile farther east. The left section remained with General Osterhaus. In these positions, the battery remained until the place was evacuated on the 16th, when they were reunited, and rejoining their division, commenced the return to Vicksburg. Arriving on the 24th, they went into camp two miles south of the city.

On the 16th of August, a part of the battery embarked at Vicksburg, under orders to proceed to Carrollton, La. The remainder followed on the 26th, and the whole battery remained in camp at Carrollton, until the 3d of September, when they crossed the Mississippi to Algiers, whence they proceeded by rail to Brashear City, arriving on the following day. They remained in camp at this place until the 24th, when they were ordered to cross Berwick Bay to Berwick City, at which place they went into camp.

On the 7th of October, they left Berwick City, and crossed the bay to Brashear City, the terminus of the New Orleans and Great Western railroad, near which they went into camp, and remained until December, during which month they were ordered to New Orleans, and were assigned position in the defences of the city.

Of their demeanor and reputation while stationed in the city, the following extract from the report of a commission appointed for the inspection of all quarters in the city occupied by government troops, sufficiently speaks: "The appearance of the quarters of this battery is highly commendable, both to officers and men. * * * The floors are tidy, and the men bright, clean and respectful to their officers. * * * Another feature we deem worthy of especial mention, viz: the enlisted men of this battery contribute each five cents daily, which amount is expended in supplying themselves with an excellent variety of newspapers and periodicals from various parts of the country. Your committee take great pleasure in awarding the justly deserved credit, due to the officers of this battery. A more self-sustaining, self-reliant body of men cannot be found in the United States Army."

In transmitting a copy of this report to Lieutenant Webster, the commanding general added an endorsement, of which the following is a copy:

"HEADQUARTERS, DEFENCES OF NEW ORLEANS,
"March 14, 1864.

* * * * * * *

"The Major General commanding is proud to recognize in this company, the materiel and characteristics of good soldiers. Strict observance of order and discipline is alike creditable to officers and men.

"The expenditure of labor to secure comfort and cleanliness, and the means adopted for mutual improvement and mental culture are highly commended, and evince a determination to merit the proud distinction due to true soldiers who learn their whole duty and perform it.

"By command of Major General Reynolds:

"(Signed) JOHN LEVERING,
"Major and A. A. Gen."

As a part of the celebrated Red River Expedition, they left New Orleans on the 22d of April, and proceeding up the Mississippi and Red Rivers, landed on the 28th at Alexandria, and immediately took position in the front near the town. They participated in the engagements which took place near Alexandria from the 2d to the 7th of May, and on the 10th, Lieutenant Hackett, with the centre section, was detached to the cavalry division, in which capacity they formed part of the rear guard, in the retrograde movement of our forces, which commenced on the 13th. On the evening of the 17th, the battery reached the Atchafalaya, which they crossed on the 20th, and marching all night, struck the Mississippi River on the following morning. Following the right bank of the river ten miles in a southerly direction, they went into camp at Morganzia Bend, where they remained during the month, returning early in June to camp in New Orleans.

In the month of August, they moved up the river to Baton Rouge, from which place two sections of the battery set out on the 25th as a portion of an expedition to Clinton, La. Having taken part in the engagement at that place, they rejoined the command on the 27th at Baton Rouge.

During the past year, the First battery was stationed principally at Baton Rouge, La. On the 15th of November, 1864, the right section, under Lieutenant Nutting, accompanied an expedition to Liberty, where they participated in a skirmish with the rebels, returning on the 22d to camp. On the 26th, the battery left Baton Rouge with the cavalry expedition, under command of General Davidson, marching by way of Greensburg, La., Columbia and Augusta, Miss., to West Pascagoula, Miss., a distance of three hundred miles, which they accomplished in sixteen days.

Embarking on the 27th of December, they reached New Orleans on the 30th, and marching thence on the 3d of January, 1865, arrived next day at Baton Rouge. Here they were stationed, until ordered to Wisconsin for discharge.

The battery was mustered out of service on the 18th of July, 1865, at Camp Washburn, Milwaukee.

SECOND BATTERY.

The Washington Artillery Company, recruited and organized under the direction of Captain Ernst Herzberg, went into rendezvous at Camp Utley, Racine, in the latter part of September, 1861, and was mustered into United States service, on the 10th of October.

They left the state for active service on the 21st of January, 1862, arriving at Baltimore on the 24th. Moving forward to Washington on the following day, they embarked on the 26th, and sailing down the Potomac, landed on the 27th at Fortress Monroe, Va., where the battery was stationed as a portion of the garrison, until September following. From Fortress Monroe they moved to Camp Hamilton, Va., near Hampton, at which place they remained in the performance of garrison duty, until the 10th of January, 1863, when they marched, arriving at Suffolk, Va., on the 12th. While stationed at this place, five pieces of the battery were engaged, on the 30th of January, in the battle near South Mary Bridge, ten miles from Suffolk. During the months of March and April, the battery was divided, three pieces being stationed between Forts Dix and Union, and two pieces on the Nansemond River, the headquarters of the battery remaining at Suffolk.

On the 6th of May, they were ordered to Portsmouth, at which place they embarked on the 7th, and proceeding up the York River, landed on the 8th at West Point. Moving thence with General Gordon's division of the Seventh corps, they encamped on the 30th at Williamsburg, where they were stationed until the 20th of July. At this date they marched to Yorktown, encamping on the south side of the fortifications. This position was retained until the 8th, when they were assigned to duty within the fort.

The Second battery remained in the fortifications at Yorktown, Va., until the 20th of January, 1864, when they embarked at that place, and proceeded by steamer to Point Lookout, Md. Here they were rejoined on the last of February, by forty-one of their number, who had previously reenlisted and left the battery at Yorktown, on veteran furlough.

The Second battery was stationed at Point Lookout, Md., employed principally as guard to rebel prisoners at that place, until mustered out of service; the date of which, in the absence of the muster-out rolls, I am unable to give.

THIRD BATTERY.

The Badger Battery, recruited and organized under the superintendence of Captain Lu. H. Drury, arrived at rendezvous, Camp Utley, Racine, in the latter part of September, 1861, and was mustered into United States' service on the 10th of October.

They left the state on the 23d of January, 1862, under orders to report at Louisville, Ky. On their arrival, they were placed in camp of instruction, near the city, and shortly afterwards, armed with rifled thirty-two pounders. On the 10th of March, they embarked at Louisville, and proceeding up the Cumberland River, landed on the 14th, at Nashville, Tenn., at which place they went into camp, remaining until the 29th, when they marched to reinforce General Grant, then at Savannah, on the Tennessee River. They encamped on the 3d of April, at Savannah, whence they were transferred, on the 19th, to Pittsburg Landing.

Thenceforward it is difficult to trace their movements. During the summer they marched from place to place in Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee and Kentucky, and on the 2d of October left Louisville, with Buell's army, to meet the rebels under Bragg. On the 8th of October, they took part in the battle of Chaplin Hills, and accompanied our army in the subsequent advance southward. Stationed for some time at Mount Vernon, Ky., they went into camp at Nashville, in the latter part of November, remaining until called upon on the 26th of December to take part in the forward movement towards Murfreesboro, near which place, after the battle of Stone River, they went into camp early in January, 1863.

Leaving Murfreesboro on the 5th of July, they marched to McMinnville, Tenn., from which place they marched, accompanying the general movement of the army of the Cumberland.

Upon the occupation of Chattanooga, by the army under General Rosecrans, the battery was assigned to duty as a portion of the permanent garrison of that important post, and stationed in Fort Phelps.

The Third battery remained at Chattanooga, Tenn., until the spring of the present year, when they moved to Murfreesboro, Tenn., at which place they were stationed until ordered to Wisconsin, to be discharged.

The battery arrived at Madison, Wisconsin, on the 3d of July, 1865, and on the 20th, was mustered out and disbanded.

The returns from this battery are imperfect, so far as relates to its military history.

FOURTH BATTERY.

The Fourth battery was organized on the 14th of September, 1861, at Beloit, under the direction of Captain John F. Vallee. Thence they moved on the 19th to the general rendezvous, at Camp Utley, Racine, where they were mustered into United States' service on the 1st of October. They remained in this camp, without horses or equipments, until the 21st of January, 1862, when they left the state for active service, under orders to report at Baltimore, Md., from which place they immediately proceeded to Washington. Leaving Washington on the 26th, they moved down the Potomac, and arrived on the 28th, at Fortress Monroe, Va., where they were incorporated with the garrison of that important post. They remained here during the summer, having been put in charge of the barbette guns of the fort, and also firing the gun Union during the celebrated engagement of the Monitor and Merrimac.

On the 13th of September, having been mounted and equipped, they were ordered to Camp Hamilton, near Hampton, Va., where they remained, doing garrison and guard duty, until the 11th of January, 1863, at which date they left Hampton under orders to proceed to Suffolk. During the month of April, while Suffolk was besieged by the rebels under Longstreet, they were constantly on duty in the most unprotected part of our lines. The siege having been raised, they marched during the night of the 5th of May, to Portsmouth, where they embarked, and proceeding up the York River, landed on the 7th at West Point, where they were employed in constructing fortifications, and in guard duty. It having been decided to abandon this place, they embarked on the 30th of May, and landed at Yorktown on the following day.

On the 9th of June, they marched with the advance column of troops, who were ordered to advance up the peninsula, under command of General Keyes. This expedition effected a junction with the main body under General Dix, on the 29th of June, at the White House, near Richmond. They left this place on the 7th of July, and marching by way of Williamsburg, went into camp at Yorktown on the 10th. They remained in garrison at this place until the 25th of August, when, their unhealthy location having occasioned considerable sickness, they were, for sanitary reasons, ordered to Gloucester Point.

The Fourth battery, on the 1st of October, 1863, was stationed at Gloucester Point, Va., and out of an aggregate strength of one hundred and twenty-four, reported but four enlisted men for duty, the remainder being on the sick list.

The battery left Gloucester Point on the 11th and arrived next day at Portsmouth, Va., where they were attached to General Getty's command, and assigned to permanent duty. On the 4th of March, 1864, accompanying the command of General Hickman, the left section marched to Suffolk on a reconnoissance, and returned on the 7th to camp. Again, on the 13th of April, the right section, under command of Lieutenant McDevitt, marched at daylight to Suffolk, and the left and centre sections, under command of Captain Easterly, embarked on transports. They landed on the following day at Cherry Grove, on Chuckatuck Creek, from which they accompanied a reconnoissance to Smithfield, Va., and re-embarking on the 15th, descended the James River to Portsmouth, where they were joined by the left section, which returned on the same day from Suffolk.

On the 20th of April, the battery embarked, under orders to report at Washington, D. C., but on the following day, when at Fortress Monroe, these orders were countermanded, and the battery directed to proceed to Yorktown, Va., where they joined General W. F. Smith's command, and were assigned on the 23d to the Artillery brigade, First division, Eighteenth army corps.

They marched to Newport News on the 3d of May, and embarking at this point on the evening of the 7th, proceeded up the James River during the night. Landing at Bermuda Hundreds on the following day, they immediately moved to the front, and early on the morning of the 9th moved with the Third brigade, on the left bank of the Appomattox River, in the direction of Petersburg. Before noon, they took position in front of, and nearly two thousand five hundred yards from, the rebel Fort Clifton, situated at the junction of Swift Creek with the Appomattox, silencing the enemy's fire from the fort in less than half an hour. On the 10th, having occupied various positions in the engagements during the two days previous, they returned to position near Bermuda Hundreds, and on the 13th, marched on the Richmond and Petersburg turnpike to Proctor's Run, near Drury's Bluff; where they were under fire during the whole of the following day, engaging the enemy's fortifications, and sustained a loss of one man wounded. They maintained this position on the 15th, and next day retired with our forces one mile to the rear, the battery covering the movement, and acting as rear guard. In the evening, they occupied position in the entrenchments near Bermuda Hundreds, where the battery remained until the 4th of June, at which date they were attached to General Kautz's cavalry division, with which they participated on the 15th in the battle at Petersburg, engaging the enemy, protected by his entrenchments, from four different positions during the day, and were at one time exposed for two hours to a concentric fire of fourteen guns. Loss during the day, three men wounded.

On the 16th of June, they occupied position with the cavalry, in the rear of the Ninth corps, during its first assault upon Petersburg, and returned next day to camp near Bermuda Hunteeds, where the battery was stationed until the 5th of July, when camp was removed to Jones' Landing on the James River. On the 8th, by order of General Butler, the entire battery was converted into horse artillery, all the cannoneers being mounted, and on the 27th of July, the left section moved with the cavalry to the right bank of the James, and having participated in the engagement at Malvern Hill, returned on the 30th to camp. On the same day, the right section set out with an expedition for the Norfolk and Petersburg railroad, moving thence on the following day to Lighthouse Point on the James River, where they were oined on the 11th of August by the other sections from Jones' Landing. Two days afterwards, the battery marched to Prince George's Court House, remaining at that point until the 26th, when camp was moved to our lines before Petersburg, the battery taking position in rear of the Ninth corps.

On the 16th of September, they accompanied the cavalry on an expedition sent in pursuit of the rebel cavalry, which had captured a herd of cattle. They returned next day to camp, and on the 27th moved to Jones' Landing. Marching at daylight on the 28th, they approached the suburbs of Richmond, and were, during the day, under a heavy fire from the enemy's inner line of defences, bivouacking for the night one thousand yards from the rebel works: Next day, the battery moved with the cavalry around Richmond, in full view of the city, and under a continued fire from the works. The right section, under Lieutenant Noggle, detached with the Second brigade, while moving on the Charles City road, engaged a small force of the enemy and drove them into the city, approaching within eight hundred yards of the main line of defences. On the 30th, the battery repulsed a cavalry charge of the rebels, and at night moved to position in the rear, distant four miles from Richmond.

The rolls on file in this office furnish no information as to the military history of the Fourth battery, for the past year, during which it was attached to the army of the Potomac.

The battery was mustered out of service on the 3d of July, 1865, at Richmond, Va.

FIFTH BATTERY.

The Fifth battery, recruited and organized under the superintendence of Captain Oscar F. Pinney, of Monroe, was mustered into United States service at Camp Utley, Racine, on the 1st of October, 1861, and left the state for field service on the 15th of March, 1862, under orders to report at St. Louis, Mo., where they arrived on the following day.

Embarking at that place on the 19th, they proceeded down the Mississippi to New Madrid, where they were employed in building and guarding forts until the surrender of Island No. 10. On the 19th of April, they again embarked, and sailing up the Tennessee River, arrived on the 21st at Pittsburg Landing, Tenn., and on the 7th of May, took position about seven miles south of Hamburg, in the army destined for the reduction of Corinth. From this time until the evacuation of Corinth, they were constantly engaged in the various duties of the siege, taking part, on the 9th of May, in the battle of Farmington. Two sections of the battery, commanded by Lieutenants Hill and Gardner, took position in the extreme front, defending a bridge, across which the enemy must advance, in order to attack. The battery retained this position for three days until withdrawn by order of General Pope, to whose division they were attached.

After the surrender of Corinth, they marched on the 23d of June to Jacinto, Miss., where they remained a short time, and moving by way of Rienzi, encamped on the 29th at Ripley, Miss. They remained at this place, in the performance of guard duty until the 14th of August, when they were ordered to Iuka.

Having been transferred to the army of the Tennessee, they left Iuka on the 21st of August, and crossing the Tennessee at Eastport, arrived on the 3d of September, at Nashville, Tenn., after a toilsome march of nearly two hundred miles. From Nashville they accompanied the forces of General Buell, in their movement northward, and left Louisville, Ky., on the 1st of October, to meet and turn back the rebel invasion under Bragg. Marching by way of Bardstown, they took part in a skirmish with the enemy on the 7th, and on the following day participated in the battle of Chaplin Hills. During the forenoon they were held as reserve and at five in the afternoon were ordered to the support of General McCook's corps. In the performance of this duty they lost one killed and one wounded, and were highly complimented by the commanding general for gallantry and efficient service. They participated in the pursuit of the retreating enemy, until it was abandoned on the 15th at Crab Orchard, Ky., at which place they rested four days, and on the 20th commenced their march by way of Lancaster to Nashville, Tenn., where they again encamped on the 7th of December, after an absence of nearly two months, during which they marched upwards of five hundred miles.

Leaving Nashville on the 26th of December, they took part in the celebrated battle of Stone River, after which, early in January, 1863, they went into camp at Murfreesboro, remaining until called upon to take part in the general advance on Tullahoma and Chattanooga. Marching on the 24th of June, they encamped on the 28th at Manchester, Tenn.

The advance was resumed on the 17th of August, when they left Manchester, and crossing the Cumberland Mountains, arrived on the 20th at Stevenson, Ala. On the 1st of September, they ascended Raccoon Mountain, and encamping two days on its summit, descended on the 4th to Valley Head, Ga., where they remained until the 10th, at which date they ascended Lookout Mountain, returning to Valley Head on the 13th. They again ascended Lookout Mountain, on the 18th, and pushing forward to Stevens' Gap, descended on the following day to Crawfish Springs, where they joined General Mitchell's cavalry. Ascertaining that the enemy was manœuvring to cut them off from the main body, the whole division fell back seven miles through Chattanooga Valley; taking a position which they retained until the 22d, when the movement towards Chattanooga was resumed. While marching, the enemy opened fire with his artillery, when the Fifth was put in position and soon silenced the enemy's guns.

On the 24th of September, they encamped within the fortifications at Chattanooga, and subsequently moved a short distance to North Chickamauga, where they remained until the 20th of November, 1863, when they were ordered to report at Caldwell's Ferry, and in the evening, marched three miles to the ferry, taking position on the bank of the Tennessee River. They were presently directed to retire from the bank and bivouac in a ravine, out of sight of the enemy, from which they moved forward on the morning of the 23d, taking position on the bank of the river at Caldwell's Ferry. Here they remained until the 27th, when two sections returned to camp, the other section having been detached for service across the river. This section shortly afterwards rejoined the battery, which subsequently moved to Chattanooga, at which place a large proportion of the members re-enlisted, and were remustered as veterans on the 2d of January, 1864.

Leaving Chattanooga soon afterwards, the Veteran Fifth battery arrived on the 16th at Madison, Wis., whence the men dispersed to their homes, in various parts of the state. Having reassembled at Camp Randall, they left Madison on the 23d of February, and proceeding by way of Nashville, Tenn., where they were detained some time awaiting transportation, arrived on the 3d of March at Chattanooga, at which place they rejoined the non-veteran portion of the battery. On the 22d, they joined the Second division, Fourteenth army corps, near Rossville, Ga., seven miles from Chattanooga, where they were fully equipped for the approaching spring campaign, and remained until the 2d of May, at which date they accompanied the advance of our forces, moving forward ten miles to Ringgold, and encamping near the bank of South Chickamauga Creek. On the 5th, they marched to Cherokee Springs, and two days afterwards to Tunnel Hill, whence they moved on the 9th, taking position in front of Rocky Face Ridge, which they retained until the evening of the 12th. Moving a short distance to the right, they passed through Snake Creek Gap during the night, and on the afternoon of the following day, moved forward with the Second, to the support of the First division, which was heavily engaged with the enemy six miles in advance.

At the battle of Resaca on the 14th of May, the battery was ordered into position at three in the afternoon, five hundred yards from, and partially enfilading, the enemy's main works, and kept up a rapid fire, until night terminated the engagement, when they withdrew, and early next morning relieved an Ohio battery, half a mile to the right of the former position. From this point they kept up a slow fire upon the rebel works during the day, and on the 16th, were put in motion, accompanying the forward movement of the division to Rome, within two miles of which place, they participated in a severe skirmish on the afternoon of the following day. They entered the town on the 21st, and remained here in camp three days, when the march was resumed, and crossing the Coosa River on the 23d, arrived on the 26th at Dallas. During the operations against the rebel works near this point, the battery occupied various positions on our line, and upon the evacuation of the entrenchments on the 5th of June, was posted five miles north of Dallas. They again moved with the division on the 10th, taking position on the 15th before the enemy's first line in front of Kenesaw Mountain, which was retained until the enemy, on the 19th, withdrew to his main works on the mountain.

On the morning of the 23d of June, they took possession of earthworks which had been constructed during the preceding night, on our new line of trenches in front of Kenesaw. Having dismounted the ammunition chests and sent the horses and caissons to the rear, they occupied this position until the evening of the 3d of July, when they were put in motion, accompanying the movement to the left, the enemy having on the previous night evacuated his strong position on Kenesaw Mountain. Marching all night towards Marietta, they passed through that town on the following day, and bivouacked in an open field near the front line of battle. On the morning of the 5th, they were assigned position near the skirmish line, where slight works were thrown up, and the battery opened fire on the rebel rifle pits and main works, which was kept up, without intermission during the afternoon. During the night the enemy fell back to the line of the Chattahoochee River, followed closely next day by our forces. The Fifth battery went into position in front of his works on the north side of the river, which was retained, keeping up a steady fire, until the enemy fell back, on the evening of the 9th, across the Chattahoochee River.

With the general advance of the army, the Fifth battery crossed the Chattahoochee on the 17th of July, and fording Peach Tree Creek on the 20th, went into position on a commanding hill, from which they shelled the rebels out of their pits, in front of a portion of the Second division. With this division, which was then on the right of our army, they advanced on the 22d, going into position within two miles of Atlanta. Here earthworks were constructed, and the battery remained in line, without farther change of position, until the 28th, when they were transferred to the line of the First division.

They were relieved from the latter position on the evening of the 3d of August, when they moved four miles to the right and were held in reserve until the 6th, at which date they relieved another battery one mile farther to the right, and again went into position on a hill within two hundred yards of the rebel skirmish line. They at once opened fire, completely silencing a rebel battery in front, and covering the advance of our infantry, which carried two lines of rifle pits and captured a large number of prisoners. During the night, earthworks were constructed, and the battery retained the position until the evening of the 26th, when they withdrew from the trenches, and accompanying the movement of the Fourteenth corps to the rear of Atlanta, they crossed the Montgomery railroad on the 28th, encamping on the 30th, eighteen miles from Atlanta, and four miles north of Jonesboro, on the Macon and Western railroad.

In the afternoon of the 31st of August, camp was moved to a point one mile east and two miles south, where they bivouacked for the night, and early on the 1st of September, advanced with their division to the left of the army of the Tennessee, then engaged with the enemy at Jonesboro. The battery was soon placed in position and was engaged for three hours, when the enemy, repulsed at all points, abandoned the field. On the following day they entered Jonesboro, and on the 6th, set out with the army on its return to Atlanta, at which place they went into camp.

On the afternoon of the 3d of October, 1864, the Fifth battery left Atlanta, Ga., and marching with the Fourteenth corps, accompanied the northward movement of General Sherman's forces, to repel the threatened attack of General Hood, upon the railroad communications with Chattanooga.

In this campaign, they marched about one hundred and sixty miles, and returning, bivouacked near Rome, Ga., where they received new clothing and were fitted out for the long march which followed. On the 12th of November, they moved southward, and arrived on the 15th at Atlanta, whence on the following day, they commenced the march to Savannah, reaching Milledgeville on the 23d. From this date, they advanced with the corps, a section of the battery being occasionally placed in position to disperse the rebel cavalry, and on the 13th of December, took position in our lines opposite Savannah. Upon the evacuation of the city by its rebel garrison, the battery encamped within a mile of the city.

On the 20th of January, 1865, they marched to the northwest, arriving on the 27th at Springfield, Ga. Moving thence on the following day, they encamped near Sisters' Ferry, where they crossed the Savannah River on the 5th of February, and moved to Upper Landing, at which point the battery was next day placed in position to prevent the passage of a rebel gunboat. Resuming the march northward through South Carolina on the 7th of February, they passed through Brighton on that day, and proceeding by way of Barnwell, they struck the Charleston and Augusta railroad on the 12th, which with the following day, was occupied in destroying the track. The battery crossed the Edisto River on the 14th, reached Lexington on the 16th, crossed the Saluda River on the 17th, Broad River on the 19th, and the Catawba at midnight on the 27th, arriving on the 5th of March at Cheraw, the terminus of the Cheraw and Darlington railroad.

Crossing the Great Pedee River at this place on the 7th of March, and the Little Pedee on the 9th, they arrived on the 11th of March at Fayetteville, N. C., where they remained until the 15th, when they crossed the Cape Fear River, the battery being placed in position to cover the passage and acting as rearguard to the army of Georgia. On the 20th the Fifth battery participated in the battle of Bentonville, and on the 23d, crossed the Neuse River to Goldsboro, going into camp at that place.

Resuming the march from Goldsboro on the 10th of April, they passed through Smithfield on the 11th, and Clayton on the following day, arriving on the 13th at Raleigh, the capital of North Carolina. They left Raleigh on the 14th, and marching in a southwesterly direction, encamped next day at Holly Springs, where they remained until the 29th of April, when they moved to Page's Station, eight miles from Raleigh, from which point they next day set out on the homeward march to Washington, D. C. During this march they accompanied the movement of the Fourteenth corps, and took part in the review of the 24th of May, at Washington, near which they remained in camp until ordered to Wisconsin to be discharged from service.

The Fifth battery arrived at Madison, Wisconsin, on the 6th of June, 1865, and was mustered out of service on the 14th, to date from the day of their arrival.

SIXTH BATTERY.

The Buena Vista Artillery, recruited and organized under the direction of Captain Henry Dillon, was mustered into the United States' service at Camp Utley, Racine, on the 2d of October, 1861, and left the state on the 15th of March, 1862, under orders to report at St. Louis, Mo., where they arrived on the following day. On the 19th, they embarked for New Madrid, where they were placed in charge of a siege battery during the siege of Island No. 10. After its surrender, they remained in the performance of garrison duty, until the 17th of May, when they left New Madrid on transports, and proceeding up the Tennessee River, arrived on the 23d at Hamburg Landing, Tenn., whence they moved on the 26th, taking position in the reserve of the besieging forces before Corinth. Shortly after the evacuation of Corinth, they marched to Rienzi, Miss., and thence to Boonville, where they were stationed a short time, returning in June to Rienzi. At this place they remained in charge of a portion of the fortifications, until the 1st of October, when they were ordered to Corinth. On the 3d and 4th, they were engaged in the battle of Corinth, sustaining a loss of four killed and twenty-one wounded. They started on the 5th in pursuit of the retreating enemy, and having marched from place to place, without being again exposed to fire, returned to Corinth on the 11th, and encamped. Leaving Corinth on the 3d of November, they encamped, on the 5th, four miles south of Grand Junction, remaining until the 10th, when they marched, proceeding after a short stay at Davis' Mills, to Moscow, Tenn. On the 28th, they encamped at Lumpkins' Mills, near Waterford.

Participating in the general southward movement of our forces, they marched with General Quimby's division in December, proceeding as far as Yocona River, returning shortly afterward to Lumpkins' Mills, whence one section of the battery, under Lieutenant Clark, was sent to Memphis, as escort to a supply train. Shortly afterwards, the remainder of the battery marched to Holly Springs, and thence to LaFayette, Tenn., where they went into camp, remaining until the latter part of the month, when camp was removed to Buntyn Station, five miles from Memphis, on the Memphis and Charleston railroad.

On the 3d of March, they embarked at Memphis, and proceeding down the Mississippi, encamped four miles below Helena, Ark., from which place they moved as a portion of the Yazoo Pass Expedition, returning to camp, near Helena, on the 9th of April. On the 13th, they again embarked, and proceeding down the river, landed on the 15th, at Milliken's Bend, La. Marching from this place on the 25th of April, as a portion of the army destined for the reduction of Vicksburg, they proceeded across the peninsula, arriving on the 30th, on the bank of the Mississippi, below Grand Gulf, where they crossed the river to Bruinsburg, Miss., on the 1st of May, and immediately took up the line of march to Port Gibson. Moving with the rear of our forces, they were ordered to the front after the battle of Thompson's Hill, and in pursuit of the retreating enemy, passed through Port Gibson to Bayou Pierre, where their farther progress was checked by a burning bridge.

Early on the morning of the 3d, the pursuit was renewed, and the enemy overtaken at Jones' Cross Roads, where a sharp skirmish ensued, in which the battery participated. In the battle at Raymond on the 12th, they were held in reserve, and took no active part in the engagement. Pursuing the retreating enemy, they started on the following day for Jackson, before which place they took part in the battle of the 14th, with the loss of two men wounded. Next day commenced the advance to Vicksburg. Marching by way of Clinton, the enemy was overtaken at Champion Hills, when they opened fire, doing good service, sustaining a loss of two men wounded. From the 19th, when they took position in the trenches before Vicksburg, until its surrender and occupation by our forces, they were constantly engaged in the duties of the siege.

After the surrender, they remained in camp at Vicksburg, until the 12th of September, when two sections of the battery were ordered to Helena. Landing at the latter place on the 15th, they were joined on the 26th by the section left at Vicksburg, and the whole battery proceeded up the river, landing on the 27th at Memphis, Tenn.

The Sixth battery, which had previously been assigned for the ensuing campaign to the First brigade, Third division, Fifteenth, army corps, left Memphis, Tenn., on the 6th of October, 1863, proceeding by rail to Glendale, Miss., a distance of one hundred and five miles. From Glendale, they marched with the celebrated expedition under General Sherman, and moving by easy marches, along the line of the Memphis and Charleston railroad, halted some days at Dickson Station, Ala., the progress of the advance division being disputed by the enemy near Tuscumbia. On the 29th, they marched to Chickasaw, Ala., where, with the assistance of gunboats, they crossed the Tennessee River on the following day, and resuming the progress eastward, passed through Florence and Rogersville, Ala., to the Elk River, which, owing to recent rains, was not fordable at this point. The direction of the march was therefore changed to the northward, and crossing the Elk River at Fayetteville, Tenn., they passed through Winchester and across the Cumberland Mountains at Cowan, reaching Bridgeport, Ala., on the 15th of November. They left Bridgeport on the 18th, and encamped on the north bank of the Tennessee, three miles above Chattanooga, on the 20th, having marched from Glendale, Miss., a distance of two hundred and fifty miles.

Participating in the movement against Mission Ridge, they crossed the Tennessee River on the 24th of November, planting two guns on a portion of the ridge during the night. In the celebrated assault of the following day, they were engaged without loss, and on the retreat of the rebel force, moved next day in pursuit as far as Graysville, Ga., whence they returned on the 29th to camp near Chattanooga.

Owing to the lack of horses, many of which had died or been rendered unserviceable during the long march from Glendale, the old guns of the battery which had been condemned at Vicksburg, were on the 2d of December, turned over to the ordnance office at Chattanooga, by order of General Smith; and marching next day without rations, they went into camp on the 5th at Bridgeport. The battery left Bridgeport on the 22d, and marching thirty miles over almost impassable roads, encamped on the 27th at Larkinsville, Ala., where they remained until the 7th of January, 1864, at which date they again marched, encamping on the 9th at Huntsville, Ala., on the Memphis and Charleston railroad.

While stationed at this place, the battery was thoroughly re-equipped, and supplied with horses and six new twelve-pounder Napoleon guns. The number of men belonging to the battery was also augmented by the arrival of fifty-three recruits from Wisconsin, who accompanied on their return from furlough, the veterans of the battery, thirty-two of whom had re-enlisted for three years.

During the months of March and April, one section of the battery, under command of Lieutenant Hood, was stationed at Whitesburg, on the Tennessee River, twelve miles from Huntsville, where they were occasionally engaged with the enemy, who occupied the opposite bank of the river. On the 21st of April, the armament of the battery was reduced to four guns, and on the 12th of May, the battery was ordered from Huntsville, in pursuit of a rebel force, which had captured and burned Madison Station, twelve miles distant. The pursuit was abandoned at the Tennessee River, and the battery returned to camp. Accompanying the movement of the division, the Sixth battery left Huntsville on the 22d of June. They reached Stevenson on the 25th, and proceeding thence by rail on the 29th, arrived on the 30th at Kingston, Ga., where they remained in camp until the 12th of July, at which date they moved forward thirteen miles, and took position in the fort commanding the bridge across the Etowah River, near Cartersville.

The Sixth battery, at that time attached to the Third division of the Fifteenth army corps, was stationed on the 1st of October, 1864, in Fort Etowah, a strong earthwork, situated on an eminence commanding the bridge across the Etowah River, near Cartersville, Ga.

On the expiration of the original term of service of the battery, the command devolved upon Lieutenant Simpson, the senior officers, together with sixty-six men, having been discharged from service. The Sixth battery then comprised an aggregate of two officers and ninety-six enlisted men, of whom forty were veterans. As they had but few horses, a supply of which could not be obtained, the battery was unprepared for field service, but in other respects was well equipped.

Upon the approach of the rebel forces under General Hood, the fortifications were strengthened, in anticipation of an attack, but owing to the failure of the enemy's assault upon Allatoona, six miles distant, on the 5th of October, Fort Etowah was not attacked. On the 1st of November, twenty-three horses of the battery were transferred to the Twelfth Wisconsin battery, with which on the 9th, the Sixth battery was ordered to exchange guns, receiving Rodman rifles for Napoleon guns. The battery broke camp at Fort Etowah on the 10th of November, and moved to Cartersville, whence they proceeded by rail, arriving next day at Chattanooga, Tenn. Here they turned over to the quartermaster's department the remainder of the horses and transportation, and resuming the journey on the 13th, they arrived on the 16th at Nashville. They joined the reserve artillery on the 17th at Camp Barry, where Captain Hood assumed command of the battery, on the 29th of November.

In anticipation of an attack from General Hood's forces, which had appoached to within a short distance of the city, Camp Barry was broken up on the same day, and the artillery assigned to different positions in the defences of Nashville, the Sixth battery occupying Fort Gillem. Early in December, the battery was supplied with horses, mules and wagons, and remained in Fort Gillem, without participating in the battles around the city, until the 29th of December, when they returned to Camp Barry.

On the 7th of January, 1865, the Sixth battery, with the artillery of the army of the Tennessee, was transferred to the Reserve garrison artillery of the department of the Cumberland, and on the 12th the horses of the battery were again turned over to the quartermaster's department. In accordance with orders to that effect, the men, on the 16th of January, were armed with muskets, and subsequently, in addition to manning the guns of the battery, furnished details, for duty as provost guard in the city. They left Nashville by rail on the 17th of February, arriving next day at Chattanooga, where the battery was placed in permanent camp.

They remained at Chattanooga, until ordered to proceed to Wisconsin, for discharge from service. They arrived on the 3d of July, 1865, at Madison, Wisconsin, where the Sixth battery was mustered out on the 18th, to take effect from the 3d, the date of their arrival in the state.

SEVENTH BATTERY.

The Badger State Flying Artillery, recruited and organized in Milwaukee, under the supervision of Captain Richard R. Griffiths, was mustered into the United States service on the 4th of October, 1861; and on the 9th went into Camp Utley, at Racine, then the general rendezvous for our artillery.

Without equipments, they left the state for active service, on the 15th of March, under orders for St. Louis, Mo., at which place, on their arrival next day, they were quartered in Benton Barracks. They embarked on the 19th, and proceeding down the Mississippi, landed on the 21st at New Madrid, where they joined General Pope's command, and were ordered to take part in the siege of Island No. 10, then in progress. Not having yet received their light artillery equipments, they were ordered to take charge of batteries of heavy siege guns, which had been planted along the Missouri bank of the river, in the performance of which duty they were constantly employed until the surrender of that rebel stronghold, on the 8th of April.

Soon afterwards, the battery was fully equipped, and on the 4th of May, removed to Island No. 10, where they remained, engaged in the performance of garrison duty, until the 11th of June, when they were transported by steamer to Hickman, Ky. Thence they marched on the same day to Union City, Tenn., joining the Kansas and Wisconsin brigade, commanded by General R. B. Mitchell. Having remained two weeks at this place, they marched through the Obion Bottoms in western Tennessee, arriving at Trenton, Tenn., on the 24th of June. Here they were stationed, guarding the Mobile and Ohio railroad, the avenue for supplies for the army of the Tennessee, until the 20th of July, when they moved to Humboldt, Tenn., an important point at the junction of the Memphis and Ohio, and Mobile and Ohio railroads. This post they held some time, in connection with our Twelfth regiment. About the 1st of December the battery was divided, three guns being detached and stationed at Trenton, eleven miles north, on the Mobile and Ohio railroad.

In the middle of December the rebel General Forrest made his great raid through western Tennessee, for the purpose of destroying General Grant's communications, by cutting the Mobile and Ohio railroad. Making a feint on Jackson, seventeen miles south of Humboldt, he succeeded in inducing our commanding general to concentrate his forces at that place. On the 18th our forces were hastily withdrawn from the line of railroad between Jackson and Columbus, Ky., the Seventh being ordered to take only their horses, guns and gun detachments, and leaving everything else, to proceed at once to Jackson. Two days afterwards, on the 20th, the enemy entered Humboldt, capturing thirty of the men, a number of their horses, and all their camp and garrison equipage, together with the company books and records. One of the men had his nose shot off in wanton barbarity, by these savages, after he had surrendered and was in their hands a prisoner. On the appearance of the rebels, ten of the men, two of whom were badly wounded in the attempt, succeeded in effecting their escape, under a severe fire, and reached Jackson, with their horses. The caissons and camp equipage at Trenton, belonging to the battery, were also captured and destroyed, and one man was taken prisoner. The others made a narrow escape, and after a laborious and difficult progress through the woods and swamps, reached Columbus, Ky., in safety. The battery was again divided; one-half being sent from Jackson in pursuit of Forrest; marching in the performance of this duty to Lexington, Ky., and back. The other half remaining at Jackson.

On the 24th of December, the whole battery moved to Trenton, from which place the pursuit of Forrest was again commenced. Two brigades, under General Sullivan, moved forward on the same night, half of the battery accompanying each brigade. After a week's tedious pursuit, the first brigade, on the 31st, came upon the enemy at Parker's Cross Roads, Tenn., where a severe action ensued; the brigade engaging Forrest's whole force for seven hours. Ten guns, in well chosen position, concentrated their fire upon the three pieces in the right half of the Seventh. These guns were all disabled by the heavy fire of the enemy; when, having expended their last charge of ammunition, this portion of the battery was charged upon by a rebel brigade and taken prisoners; but shortly after, with the exception of ten men, were released by a gallant charge of the Thirty-ninth Iowa. At this time, out of less than forty men engaged, they had lost five killed, sixteen wounded and ten prisoners. The severity of the concentric fire to which they were exposed, is indicated by the fact that all their horses, but one, were killed. At this juncture, the other brigade came up. The second half of the battery immediately opened fire, and the rout of the enemy was soon completed.

Pursuit was kept up until he crossed the Tennessee, when the Seventh battery returned to Jackson. Here they were again equipped, and remained stationed until the 1st of June, 1863, when they moved to Corinth, Miss., and were assigned to duty as part of the garrison of that important place. Moving thence on the 31st of June, they encamped at Memphis, at which place they were attached to the Fourth brigade of the Fifth division, Sixteenth army corps, and ordered to permanent garrison duty.

The requisite number of men belonging to the battery having re-enlisted, the Veteran Seventh was ordered on the 25th of February to proceed to Wisconsin on thirty days' furlough, and arrived on the 29th at Milwaukee. On the expiration of this short leave of absence, they again left the state and reported for duty on the 9th of April, at Memphis, where the battery remained, with slight exceptions, until the expiration of its term of service.

On the 1st of May, the right section left camp with an expedition against the rebel General Forrest, and returned on the 11th, having marched two hundred miles. The left section, on the 1st of June, set out from Memphis with a similar expedition, and returned to camp on the 12th, after a march of two hundred and twenty-five miles. In the march of this expedition, the enemy was found strongly posted near Guntown, Miss., and after a severe engagement, lasting eight hours, our forces were compelled to retreat, our section of the Seventh losing its guns and five men captured by the rebels.

In the celebrated raid of the rebels on Memphis, on the 21st of August, the battery was surprised by General Forrest's forces, and the guns temporarily falling into the enemy's hands, no effectual resistance could be offered. A portion of the men effected their escape, and subsequently obtaining possession of the guns, turned them upon the enemy, with good effect. In this affair, the loss of the battery was four killed, two wounded and nine prisoners.

The Seventh battery remained at Memphis, Tenn., until ordered to Wisconsin for discharge from service, the date of which, in the absence of the muster-out roll, I am unable to give.

EIGHTH BATTERY.

Lyon's Pinery Battery, recruited and organized under the direction of Captain Stephen J. Carpenter, of Stevens' Point, was mustered into United States' service at Camp Utley, Racine, on the 8th of January, 1862, and left the state, for active service, on the 18th of March, under orders to report at St. Louis. Arriving on the 20th, they remained in Benton Barracks until the 4th of April, when they embarked, proceeding up the Missouri River to Fort Leavenworth, Ks., where they joined the forces organizing at that place for the Great Southwestern Expedition.

On the 10th of May, commenced the march to Fort Riley, Ks., where they remained two days, and, the expedition having been abandoned, set out on the 17th, on their return to Fort Leavenworth, at which place they embarked on the 27th, for Columbus, Ky., arriving at the latter post on the 4th of June. Marching thence to Humboldt, Tenn., at the junction of the Memphis and Ohio with the Mobile and Ohio railroad, they were stationed at this place in the performance of guard duty, from the 18th of June to the 1st of July, when they were ordered to march, and proceeding southward, arrived on the 9th at Corinth, Miss. In the beginning of August they took part in a scouting expedition, in the direction of Jacinto and Bay Springs, where they came up with the enemy on the 12th, and took part in a sharp skirmish which followed. The enemy having withdrawn during the night, the expedition pressed forward to Iuka, which they entered on the 14th.

While at Iuka, orders were received transferring the battery to the army of the Tennessee, and directing them to report at Nashville, Tenn., where two sections arrived, after a long and toilsome march, on the 4th of September, the centre section, commanded by Lieutenant McLean, being left at Eastport, Miss.

Participating in the movement of our forces towards the Ohio, they arrived on the 26th, at Louisville, Ky. Marching with Buell's army, they left Louisville on the 1st of October, and took part in the battle of Chaplin Hills on the 8th. After the battle, they participated in the pursuit of the enemy, overtaking him on the afternoon of the 14th, near Lancaster. In the skirmishes of the following day, they were engaged, shelling the enemy from his position at Lancaster, and following to Crab Orchard, Ky., where the pursuit was abandoned, and changing their direction, the battery encamped on the 22d, at Lebanon. Arriving at Bowling Green on the 1st of November, they marched thence to Nashville, encamping on the 7th at that place, where they were joined by the centre section, which meanwhile had taken part in the battles of Iuka and Corinth.

Leaving Nashville on the 26th of December, the battery was engaged in the battle of Stone River, immediately after which, early in January, 1863, they went into camp at Murfreesboro, remaining until called upon to take part in the general movement of the army of the Cumberland upon Tullahoma.

Leaving Murfreesboro on the 24th of June, they proceeded by way of Hoover's Gap, to Manchester, arriving on the 28th. After a short rest at this place, they marched on the 1st of July, encamping on the 3d, at Winchester. After a series of marches southward, in the vicinity of Stevenson, Ala., they arrived on the 4th of September, at Valley Head, Ga., where they remained five days, crossing Lookout Mountain on the 10th, and after a rest of two days, recrossing the mountain from Beaver Valley to Phillips' Springs, where they arrived on the 14th. Moving again on the following day, they proceeded by way of Stevens' Gap, taking position on the field of Chickamauga, early on the morning of the 19th, when they took part in the battle of that day, retiring on the 22d to Chattanooga, where they were assigned position as part of the garrison.

The Eighth battery was engaged on the 24th and 25th of November, in the movement against Mission Ridge and Lookout Mountain, and on the 5th of December left Chattanooga, under orders to report at Nashville, where they arrived on the 8th, and were assigned to the Second division, artillery reserve. Here they received new guns and equipments, and on the 26th of January, 1864, were re-mustered into service as veterans, eighty-two members of the battery having re-enlisted.

The Veteran Eighth battery left Nashville on the 12th of March, and on the 15th arrived at Madison, Wisconsin, where the men received thirty days' furlough and dispersed to their homes.

The battery assembled at Camp Utley, Racine, on the 16th of April, and a second time left the state on the 20th, arriving on the 25th at Murfreesboro, Tenn., at which place they joined the non-veteran portion of the battery, which had meanwhile moved from Nashville. The battery was assigned position in Fortress Rosecrans, in the defences of Murfreesboro, where they were stationed as garrison.

The Eighth battery remained at Murfreesboro, Tenn., until ordered to Milwaukee, Wisconsin, where the battery was mustered out and disbanded on the 10th of August, 1865.

NINTH BATTERY.

The Randall Battery was organized at Burlington, Racine County, and mustered into the United States service on the 27th of January, 1862. They moved to Camp Utley, Racine, on the 18th of March, whence they were ordered to report for active service at St. Louis, Mo., and arrived at the latter city on the 20th.

Here they were equipped with a battery of six guns, captured at Fort Donelson; and forty-five men, with Lieutenant Hicks, from the Tenth battery, were added to their number, by order of General Halleck. They left Benton Barracks on the 3d of April, and proceeding up the Missouri River, disembarked on the 14th at Fort Leavenworth, Ks., where they were furnished with horses and otherwise thoroughly equipped for their long march across the plains. They struck tents at Fort Leavenworth on the 26th, and the march was commenced. They reached Fort Kearney on the 10th of May, and remained four days. Proceeding thence on the 14th, by way of Julesburg, [May 23d], they arrived at Denver City, C. T., on the 2d of June, having accomplished a distance of upwards of five hundred miles within thirty-eight days.

On the 5th of June, 1862, the right section of the battery, under command of Lieutenant Dodge, left Denver City, en route for Fort Union, New Mexico, at which place they arrived on the 24th, having marched two hundred and ninety miles. Leaving Fort Union on the 5th of July, they marched a distance of two hundred and sixty miles, to Fort Lyon, in Colorado Territory, arriving on the 18th of the same month.

The left section, under command of Lieutenant Crocker, left Denver City on the 14th of June, 1862, for Fort Lyon, C. T., whence they subsequently marched on the 12th of July, for Fort Larned, Ks., a distance of four hundred and eighty miles from Denver City, where they went into camp.

The centre section, under command of Captain Johnson, left Denver City on the 22d of June, 1862, marching two hundred and forty miles to Fort Lyon. Having been ordered back, they commenced the return march on the 3d of August, and reached Denver City on the 11th. They remained in camp at this place until the 11th of December, when they again marched for Fort Lyon, joining at that place the right section of the battery.

The several sections occupied these positions respectively during the winter, and until the 17th of April, 1864, when the right and centre sections were relieved from duty at Fort Lyon. On the same day, one section, commanded by Captain Dodge, was ordered out with a scouting party to assist in the capture of government stock, which had been stolen by the Indians. Having marched a distance of one hundred and seventy miles, they returned to camp on the 21st of April, and on the 26th, these two sections left Fort Lyon, en route for Council Grove, Ks., at which place they arrived on the 18th of May, having meanwhile marched nearly four hundred and fifty miles.

The right section, under command of Lieutenant Edington, left Council Grove on the 24th of July, arriving on the following day at Salina, seventy-five miles distant, where a detachment of the battery was left, under command of Lieutenant Hicks, the remainder of the section, with Lieutenant Edington, marching thence as part of an expedition, under General Curtis, with whose forces they served for some time afterwards.

The second section, under Captain Dodge, left Council Grove on the 24th of July, marching in the direction of Fort Larned, to relieve government trains, which had been attacked en route by Indians, and having marched one hundred and ninety-five miles, they returned on the 31st to camp. This section subsequently moved to Fort Riley, Ks.

On the 14th of October, 1864, two sections of the Ninth battery, including those previously stationed at Salina, left Fort Riley, Ks., leaving a detachment of twenty-six men at that place, under Lieutenant Edington, and proceeding by forced marches, a distance of one hundred and forty-five miles, arrived on the 18th at Shawneetown, joining Colonel Moonlight's brigade, General Blunt's division, of the army of the Border, then in pursuit of the rebel General Price's retreating forces.

They left Shawneetown on the 21st of October, arriving next day at Kansas City, and on the 23d were engaged in the battle at Westport, Mo., and encamped at Little Santa Fe, having marched twenty-eight miles during the day. Continuing the pursuit on the 24th, they arrived next day at Fort Scott, Ks. They left Fort Scott on the 26th, and having marched one hundred and forty-two miles, arrived on the 30th at Keittsville, Mo. Resuming the march on the 1st of November, they arrived on the 4th at Fayetteville, Ark., where they were allowed to rest, the rebel forces having been driven across the Arkansas River. They left Fayetteville on the 15th of November, and moved to Paola, Ks., where they encamped.

In December these two sections moved to Fort Leavenworth, where they were joined in January, 1865, by Lieutenant Crocker's command from Fort Larned. On the 26th of January, two commissioned officers, and fifty-nine enlisted men were mustered out by reason of the expiration of their term of service, when Lieutenant Crocker assumed command of the battery. Early in February the detachment under Lieutenant Edington rejoined the battery at Fort Leavenworth. The headquarters of the battery were subsequently moved to Fort Riley.

The Ninth battery was mustered out on the 30th of September at Fort Leavenworth, Ks., and arrived on the 4th of October, 1865, at Madison, Wisconsin, where the men received their pay and final discharge.

TENTH BATTERY.

The Tenth battery, recruited and organized at New Lisbon, under the superintendence of Captain Yates V. Beebe, was mustered into United States' service at Milwaukee on the 10th of February, 1862, while en route to Camp Utley, Racine, where the battery remained until the 18th of March, when they left the state for active service.

They arrived on the 20th at St. Louis, Mo., and went into camp at Benton Barracks, where on the 1st of April, Lieutenant Toner, with twenty five men, was transferred to the Eighth battery, and Lieutenant Hicks, with forty-five men, was transferred to the Ninth battery, by order of General Halleck, thus leaving an aggregate with the Tenth, of but forty-seven men. They were joined on the 18th of April by twenty-four recruits from Wisconsin, and having meanwhile been armed and equipped, they left St. Louis on the 30th, and proceeding up the Tenne-see River, debarked on the 4th of May at Pittsburg Landing, Tenn., where they were assigned to the Reserve artillery. They took part in the action before Corinth, on the 28th, with a loss of two men killed and wounded, and several horses.

After the evacuation of Corinth by the rebels, they marched in pursuit as far as Boonville, and on their return, encamped at Tuscumbia Creek, near Corinth. While stationed at this place, they were assigned on the 5th of July, to the First brigade, First division of the army of the Mississippi, and twenty four men from the brigade were temporarily attached to the battery, thus lightening their labors, which had previously been very arduous, the company performing the duty of a full battery, while on an active campaign, with less than half the complement of men.

On the 21st of July, they marched to Iuka, twenty-two miles east of Corinth, on the Memphis and Charleston railroad, from which place on the 12th of August, they began the march with the division, to join the army of the Tennessee, then in the vicinity of Nashville. From Iuka, they moved to Tuscumbia, Ala., whence on the 17th, they resumed the march, and following the line of the Memphis and Charleston railroad, arrived on the 20th at Courtland, where one section of the battery was left, under command of Lieutenant Groesbeck, the balance of the battery continuing the movement to Decatur, Ala., on the Tennessee River, ninety-five miles from Corinth. Lieutenant Groesbeck's command rejoined the battery at this place on the 3d of September, and on the 5th, they crossed the river, having previously burned the tents and surplus baggage. Proceeding northwards by forced marches, and subsisting on scanty rations, they bivouacked on the 7th at Athens, awaiting the arrival of the Second brigade, which had crossed the river at Florence, and on the following day, the movement was resumed by the whole command. At Columbia, Tenn., they met and routed a body of Van Dorn's rebel cavalry, and arrived on the 14th of September, at Nashville, Tenn., where they went into camp.

Here the battery was almost daily employed by sections, in escorting forage trains, the whole command subsisting on the country, and participated, on the 5th of November, in a skirmish on the Murfreesboro pike, before the city. Next day, the army, under command of General Rosecrans, returned to Nashville, from the Kentucky campaign, and the battery was reinforced by the arrival of Lieutenants Clark and Fowler, with fifty recruits from Wisconsin. The men previously attached were now returned to their regiments, and the Tenth battery subsequently performed "its own duty with its own men."

While stationed at this post, they were frequently ordered out as escort to forage trains, and on the 12th of December, were assigned to the Second brigade, Seventh division, Fourteenth army corps, and on the 2d of January, 1863, were ordered with a brigade to escort a supply train to Murfreesboro. On arriving at the front, the battery was temporarily detached from the brigade and participated on the 5th in the battle of Stone River.

They rejoined the brigade on the 8th at Nashville, where they were employed in garrison duty until the 8th of April, at which date they moved ten miles south to Brentwood. Here they were employed in railroad guard duty, until ordered on the 3d of June to return to Nashville, from which place, on the 16th of July, they moved to Murfreesboro, where they encamped as a portion of the garrison. They left Murfreesboro on the 19th of August, marching by way of Shelbyville to Columbia, Tenn., from which place they moved on the 26th, going into camp at Athens, Ala. On the 1st of September, they marched to Huntsville, and moving thence on the 3d, by way of Flint River Station, they arrived on the 4th at Stevenson, the junction of the Memphis and Charleston, and Nashville and Chattanooga railroads. On the 10th, one section was ordered to Caperton's Ferry to guard the pontoon bridges at that place, and on the 18th rejoined the battery, which moved on the 20th to Bridgeport, Tenn., encamping at that place on an island in the Tennessee River, where they were employed in guarding bridges until the 10th of October, at which date they moved to Anderson's Cross Roads, in the Sequatchie Valley. Here they were employed in guarding trains on Waldron's Ridge, and on the 18th, marched to Dallas Landing, on the Tennessee River, from which, on the 21st, one section was ordered forty miles up the stream to Smith's Ferry.

The battery remained in these positions, guarding the river at various points from Chattanooga to Knoxville, until the 1st of January, 1864, when one section crossed the Tennessee, marching to Calhoun on the Hiawassee River, where they were joined by the other sections of the battery in the beginning of February, and employed in guarding the railroad bridge until the 27th of April, when they marched to Cleveland, Tenn,, joining at that place the Second division of the Fourth Corps, to which they had been temporarily attached.

On the 3d of May, they marched twenty-seven miles to Catoosa Springs, where the battery was permanently assigned to the Third cavalry division of the army of the Cumberland, and marching on the 7th, proceeded by way of Tunnel Hill to Dogwood Valley, where they joined the division on the 9th and reported to General Kilpatrick for duty. Next day, they marched through Snake Creek Gap, to Sugar Valley, and on the 13th, were heavily engaged with the enemy before Resaca, Ga., while the cavalry held the enemy in check to permit our infantry to form line. On the 14th, the battery was engaged during the day at Calhoun Ferry, where they lost one man wounded and a gun disabled by the rebel fire. A portion of the battery was also engaged next day at a ford between Calhoun Ferry and Resaca. In these engagements the battery was highly praised by the division commander for "energy, prompt manœuvring and accurate firing."

Crossing the Oostenaula River on the 16th of May, they marched by way of Adairsville to Kingston, near which place they bivouacked on the evening of the 19th, in line of battle between General Hooker's and General Howard's corps. On the following day, they moved to General Sherman's headquarters, and on the 22d, returned to Adairsville, where they were posted as railroad guard until the 7th of June, when they moved forward ten miles to Kingston. On the 2d of July, they marched twelve miles to Cartersville, where they were stationed as guard to the communications of the army, until the 3d of August, at which date they marched to Sandtown.

From this point they set out on the 14th of August, as part of the forces which accompanied General Kilpatrick in his celebrated raid upon the communications of Atlanta. On the 19th they struck the Atlanta and West Point railroad at Red Oak, engaged the enemy, silenced his battery and destroyed about two miles of the track. In the afternoon, they cut the Macon and Western railroad at Jonesboro, where they again engaged the rebels with the same result, burned the depot, rolling stock and public buildings and destroyed three miles of the track. On the following day, closely followed by a rebel brigade, under General Ross, they again struck the Macon railroad at Lovejoy Station, where they encountered a division of the enemy under General Reynolds. Our battery at once opened fire attacking the rebels vigorously with a portion of our force, while a detachment destroyed the railroad and burned the depot. In the meantime, the forces in their rear had rapidly closed up, and as soon as the object of the raid was accomplished, General Kilpatrick quickly massed his force and charged through the rebel brigade. In this action, the Tenth battery lost four wounded and one missing. The expedition marched around Atlanta, passing through McDonough and Decatur, and returned on the 23d, to Sandtown, having in five days, marched one hundred and forty-six miles and fought three battles.

On the 27th of August, they moved to Camp Creek, and on the following day, again engaged the enemy at Red Oak, where they silenced his battery. On the morning of the 30th, the enemy was encountered six miles east of Red Oak, and after three engagements in which he was each time dislodged from his position, he was finally driven in the afternoon to Jonesboro.

Accompanying the movement of the cavalry, they marched one and a half miles southwest to Burnt Bridge, on Flint River, where fire was opened by one section of the battery on the rebel position. At three in the afternoon they were attacked by General Claiborne's division, when the whole battery was brought into action, and held the position until their ammunition was expended, and the whole brigade ordered to fall back. They again advanced to Burnt Bridge on the 1st of September, and shelled the rebel position at intervals, until three in the afternoon, when the cavalry was relieved by the Seventeenth corps, and next day, they moved six miles down the stream to Glass' Bridge, where they dislodged the enemy after a sharp engagement. On the 3d, they moved about five miles, and encamped on the right of the Seventeenth corps, near Lovejoy Station, and participating in the general movement of our forces towards Atlanta, they fell back on the 5th to Burnt Bridge.

They fired the last shot of the campaign on the 7th of September, and marched during the day to camp, midway between Sandtown and Atlanta.

The Tenth battery, accompanying the movement of the cavalry corps of General Sherman's army, broke camp between Sandtown and Atlanta, Ga., on the 1st of October, 1864. Marching twelve miles on the bank of the Sweetwater River, to Salt Springs, they participated on this and the following day in an action near this place, and on the 3d took part in the engagement at Moses' Creek, near Powder Springs. They marched on the 4th of October, fifteen miles to Kenesaw Mountain, and next day moved forward twelve miles to Culp's farm on Moses' Creek, where they encamped until the 9th, when the movement northward was resumed, and passing next day through Van Wirt, at which place they participated in an action lasting two hours, arrived on the 13th at Rome. In the afternoon of the 13th, the battery marched on a reconnoissance, eight miles on the bank of the Coosa River, returning in the evening to Rome.

They left Rome on the 14th of October, marching twenty miles to a point near Stilesboro, whence they marched on the 16th to Burnt Hickory, returning next day to camp near Stilesboro. On the 20th, they moved twenty-two miles to Pumpkin Vine, and returning on the 22d, remained in camp on Davis' plantation, a short distance from Stilesboro, until the 27th of October, when they were again put in motion, arriving next day at Marietta, where they went into camp, having marched during the month a distance of two hundred and thirty miles.

In the movement of General Sherman's army to Savannah, they marched on the 14th of November to East Point, and advancing next day from this place to Marengo, were engaged on the 16th at Lovejoy Station and Bear Creek, capturing two guns. On the 18th, they reached Planter's Factory, where they crossed the Ocmulgee River on the following day, and advancing by way of Clinton, arrived on the 20th, at Macon, the junction of the South-western, Macon and Western, and Georgia Central railroads.

They moved on the 21st of November, five miles east of Macon, and lay in line of battle until next day, when the march was resumed, the battery arriving at Gordon on the 23d and passing through Milledgeville on the following day. In the action at Waynesboro on the 27th, one piece of the battery was engaged and assisted in the repulse of the rebel attack upon the rear guard. The battery also participated on the 28th, in the engagements at Buckhead Church and Jones' plantation, arriving on the 29th at Louisville, having marched during the month, three hundred and thirty-seven miles.

Continuing the march from Louisville on the 1st of December, they arrived on the 3d at Thomas' Station, and next day participated in the action at Waynesboro, on the Augusta and Savannah railroad. On the 11th, the battery encamped within five miles of Savannah on the Georgia Central railroad, and on the 13th set out for Midway Church, thirty miles distant, arriving next day. Returning on the 16th, they went into camp at King's Bridge, near Savannah, where they remained until the commencement of the campaign through the Carolinas.

Marching from King's Bridge on the 28th of January, 1865, they passed through Springfield, Ga., on the 30th to Sister's Ferry, at which point they crossed the Savannah River on the 3d of February, and moved forward six miles to Robertsville, S. C. Marching next day, they arrived on the 6th at Barnwell, having participated in the action at the Salkehatchie River, near that place, They advanced on the 7th of February to Blackville, and arriving on the 11th at Aiken, seventeen miles from Augusta, on the Charleston and Augusta railroad, participated in the attempt by our cavalry to carry the town by storm. The attack having been repulsed by the rebel garrison, they retired six miles to Johnston's Station, during which movement the battery formed part of the rear guard.

On the 13th of February, they crossed the South Edisto River at Gainard's Bridge, and next day arrived at Gunter's Bridge, on the North Edisto, where they participated in an engagement with a force of the enemy, posted to prevent the crossing of the river. They reached Lexington on the 16th, and crossing the Saluda River at Mount Zion on the 17th, passed through Alston next day, crossed Broad River on the 19th, arriving on the 22d at Blackstock Station, on the Charlotte and South Carolina Railroad. They arrived on the 25th at Lancaster, and resuming the march to the northeast on the 28th, they took part, on the 3d of march, in an engogement near Hornsboro, in Anson County, N. C. Next day the rebel attack was again repulsed, and on the 5th they reached Sneedsboro, at which place they were delayed one day awaiting the arrival of pontoons, and crossing the Great Pedee River on the evening of the 6th, they arrived next day at Rockingham, in the action at which place one section of the battery was engaged.

On the 9th of March, the Tenth battery reached Monroe's Cross Roads, where the camp was attacked at daylight next morning by General Hampton's forces, our battery losing ten prisoners, thirty horses killed and captured, and one gun disabled in the engagement which resulted. They marched on the 11th, twenty-one miles to Fayetteville, where they crossed Cape Fear River on the 15th, and skirmishing with the enemy as they advanced, pressed forward twenty-three miles to smith's plantation, near Averysboro, where they took part next day in the general engagement of the cavalry and the Twentieth corps, with General Johnston's forces. The battery on the 24th of March, arrived at Mount Olive, fourteen miles south of Goldsboro, on the Wilmington and Weldon railroad.

On their arrival at Goldsboro, N. C., the non-veterans of the battery who were entitled to discharge were ordered to Wisconsin for muster-out of service, and arrived at Madison on the 20th of April, 1865, where they were mustered out on the 26th, to take effect from the date of arrival.

The balance of the battery was temporarily attached to the Twelfth Wisconsin battery, with which they served until discharged from service.

ELEVENTH BATTERY.

Early in 1862, under the authority of a recruiting appointment, the Oconto Irish Guards, numbering eighty-four men, were enlisted by John McAfee, of Oconto, for the Seventeenth regiment, then in process of organization. Captain McAfee was subsequently commissioned captain of the company, and on reaching Camp Randall with his command, it was found that under the direction of the colonel of the Seventeenth, ten companies had already been assigned to position, and the regimental organization completed. Under these circumstances, with the sanction of Governor Harvey, the company was transferred to the artillery service; and leaving Camp Randall on the 6th of April, was attached to the "Irish Brigade," then organizing under the direction of Colonel James A. Mulligan, at Camp Douglas, Chicago, Ill.

At this place the company was joined by a second lieutenant, with a number of recruits from Illinois, and the Eleventh battery was fully organized, under the command of Captain John Rourke, of Milwaukee; Captain McAfee receiving a commission as first lieutenant, and the other officers of the Oconto Irish Guards retaining their respective positions.

They left Camp Douglas for field service on the 14th of June, arriving at Harper's Ferry on the 19th, and crossing the Potomac on the 23d, went into camp at New Creek, West Va., on the following day.

On the 1st of July a scouting party of fifteen men, with one field piece, under command of Lieutenant Bagley, was detached from the battery, and proceeding by way of Ridgeville, where they remained three days, occupied Petersburg, Va., until the 16th, returning to camp on the 18th. Accompanying a detachment of cavalry, a section of this battery left New Creek on the 28th of October, under orders to intercept Imboden at Greenland Gap. The rebels were overtaken near Petersburg, and after a sharp skirmish, the expedition returned without loss, having captured sixteen prisoners and one hundred and seventy head of cattle. Again, on the 8th of November, two sections of the battery accompanied a force of infantry and cavalry, in search of Imboden's rebel forces. Having marched upwards of sixty miles, they engaged the enemy, eighteen miles beyond Moorfield. After a conflict lasting three hours, the enemy scattered and fled to the mountains, leaving fifty prisoners, with a number of cattle and horses. Having burned their encampments, the expedition returned to camp.

On the 19th of March, 1863, a detachment of forty men, mounted as cavalry under Captain Rourke, proceeded to Greenland Gap, twenty-two miles from camp, where they captured about three thousand pounds of tobacco which was being smuggled through our lines at that point, returning on the same day.

The battery left New Creek on the 25th of April, proceeding by way of Grafton and Webster, to the relief of a portion of our forces at Philippi; where on the following day, they engaged and drove back Imboden's advance. Returning to Grafton on the 27th, one section, under Lieutenant Bagley was ordered next day, to proceed to Rowellsburg, and hold it against the enemy; and Lieutenant McAfee, with one piece, was detached on the 29th, accompanying a small force to Fairmount, before which place the enemy, 5,000 strong, made his appearance in the afternoon. After a resistance of three and a half hours, Lieutenant McAfee was forced to fall back on Grafton, with a loss of three men wounded. The whole battery subsequently moved back to New Creek, whence a section under command of Lieutenant Bagley, was detached on the 10th of June, at stationed and Cumberland, Md.

The forces stationed in this part of West Virginia, being ordered to cooperate with the movement of the army of the Potomac, the battery left New Creek on the 6th of July, marching by way of Cumberland, Md., where they were joined by the section under Lieutenant Bagley, and proceeding through Hancock and Williamsport to Cherry Run, where they crossed the Potomac on the 18th, and went into camp at Hedgesville, Va.

Here an attempt was made on the 20th of July, by a portion of Lee's army, to surround and capture the battery, which rendered necessary the abandonment of the place. They returned on the 24th, and occupied Hedgesville until the 1st of August, when the march was resumed, the battery going into camp on the 6th, at Burlington, on Patterson's Creek. Marching thence on the 15th, they arrived two days afterward at Petersburg, Va. On the following day, [August 18th], one section of the battery was detached to Moorfield, West Va., where on the morning of the 24th of September, they were attacked by the enemy in vastly superior numbers. The assault was twice repulsed, when, about four in the afternoon, this little force fell back to Petersburg, where they rejoined the battery.

The Eleventh battery was frequently employed during the month of October, on scouting parties through the country, being mounted as cavalry for that purpose, and on the 8th of November, a section of the battery, commanded by Lieutenant McAfee, marched towards Monterey with ten days' rations, to join General Averill, and returned by way of Franklin to camp on the 14th, having marched one hundred and ten miles.

On the 10th of December, one section marched with General Averill's command towards the Virginia and Tennessee Central railroad, and at McDowell, this portion of the battery, with an additional force of infantry, held the rebel forces of Imboden in check, while our cavalry destroyed the road. After a march of one hundred and thirty-six miles over mountainous and difficult roads, they returned on the 24th to Petersburg.

At the advance of the rebel forces, under General Earlys against Petersburg, they left that place on the evening of the 30th of January, 1864, and retreated across the mountains to New Creek, where they went into camp on the 1st of February, after a most fatiguing march, during which three of their number were captured by the enemy.

On the 3d of April, a section of the battery, commanded by Lieutenant Bagley, was detached from New Creek, and occupied position at Greenland Gap. Upon the promotion of Lieutenant Cunningham, he was assigned to the command of this section, and Lieutenant Bagley took command of the battery at Petersburg, whence he marched on the 5th of May to Piedmont, in command of a detachment of infantry and one gun, for the purpose of intercepting a rebel force under McNeil, who was engaged in a raid on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at that place. Lieutenant Bagley's command came up with the enemy at Bloomington, and having routed his force, returned in the evening without loss to camp.

On the 3d of July, the left section of the battery, under command of Lieutenant Cunningham, was ordered to retire from Greenland Gap, then threatened by the advance of a large force of the Enemy under Early and Breckinridge. Marching over rocky and mountainous roads, almost impassable for artillery, they arrived on the 4th at New Creek. On the 6th, this section was again ordered to Greenland Gap, where thy remained until the 25th, when the post was finally abandoned in obedience to orders, and the section returned to New Creek. On the 31st, the centre section, under Lieutenant McKenzie, marched to Cumberland, Md, where they were ordered to assist in the defence of that place against a considerable force of the enemy then approaching under McCausland and Bradley T. Johnson. The enemy was attacked on the 1st of August at Folck's Mills, and after an obstinate contest, lasting five hours, was finally driven from the field with severe loss, leaving in our hands several horses, caissons and a quantity of ammunition. Loss of the battery, one man severely wounded. This force subsequently appeared on the 4th of August before New Creek, where the left section was stationed, and was again defeated, the rebels retiring in disorder from the field, abandoning their killed and wounded.

The several sections of the battery were united on the 10th of September, by the return of the force from Cumberland, and on the 27th, the right section, under command of Lieutenant Bagley, moved to Clarksburg. The centre section, under Lieutenant Cunningham, moved on the 28th to Grafton, and encamped.

On the 1st of October, 1864, the Eleventh battery was stationed in West Virginia, as follows; the centre section, under command of First Lieutenant McAfee, at Grafton; the right section, First Lieutenant Charles Bagley, at Clarksburg, and the left section, Second Lieutenant McKenzie, at New Creek.

Lieutenant McAfee, with eighteen men and one gun of the battery, left Grafton on the 26th of November, with an expedition under command of Lieutenant Colonel Fleming, of the Sixth West Virginia cavalry, and having marched about forty miles towards Moorfield, encountered a superior force of the enemy, and was driven back to New Creek, with the loss of six men, eleven horses and one piece of artillery, captured by the rebels. On the 28th of November, the enemy attacked the post of New Creek, and captured forty-nine men, including one commissioned officer of the battery, with sixty-eight horses and three pieces of artillery. Lieutenant Bagley then assumed command of the battery; Lieutenant Cunningham taking charge of the detachment at Clarksburg.

On the 21st of January, 1865, the Eleventh battery was ordered to Harper's Ferry, W. Va., and arrived at that place on the evening of the 22d, reporting to General Stevenson, in command of that post. The battery remained at Harper's Ferry, until ordered to be discharged from service.

The muster-out rolls of this organization have not been received at this office.

TWELFTH BATTERY.

The Twelfth battery was recruited during the months of February and March, 1862, by Captain William A. Pile, of Missouri, under special authority granted him for that purpose by Governor Harvey. The men were mustered into United States' service by squads, as enlisted, at various dates during the month of March, and sent forward to be organized and equipped at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., with the understanding that they were to be attached to the First Missouri Artillery, as the Twelfth battery Wisconsin Volunteers

In the latter part of March, a number of the recruits were temporarily attached to a Missouri battery and proceeded to New Madrid, where they were employed in the siege of Island No. 10, and returned in the middle of April to Jefferson Barracks, on the bank of the Mississippi, nine miles below St. Louis. Here they joined the remainder of the recruits who had been sent forward from Wisconsin.

On the attempt to complete the organization of the battery, Captain Pile refused to acknowledge the authority of the Governor of Wisconsin, and proceeded to distribute the men according to his pleasure or caprice, among other organizations. It may here be stated that, upon being informed of his action in this matter, the Governor of Wisconsin, with the approval of the War Department, revoked the commission of Captain Pile on the 18th of July.

On the 6th of May, two sections of the Twelfth battery left Jefferson Barracks, and proceeded by steamer up the Tennessee River, disembarking on the 10th, at Hamburg, Tenn. On the following day, they moved forward to Farmington, Miss., where they joined General Pope's command, taking position in our forces, then engaged under General Halleck, in the siege of Corinth. At this place, on the 15th, they joined the other section of the battery, which had been sent forward a few days previous, under command of Lieutenant L. D. Immel, of Missouri. Thenceforward, they were employed in the varied duties of the siege, and on the 29th, one section, commanded by Lieutenant Zickerick, was ordered to the front where they opened fire upon the enemy, destroying a fort which commanded the Memphis and Charleston railroad. During the night, the enemy evacuated Corinth, and on the following day, the battery moved forward in pursuit, going into camp on the 31st, at Clear Creek, Miss., where they remained until the 6th of June, at which date camp was moved to the vicinity of Boonville. They returned to Clear Creek on the 11th, remaining in camp at that place until the 27th, when they commenced the march to Holly Springs.

On reaching a point three miles beyond Ripley, they were ordered to return, and went into camp on the 2d of July between Rienza and Jacinto, remaining until the 10th, when they returned to camp at Clear Creek, resuming the performance of post and garrison duty.

While stationed at this place, Captain Zickerick took command of the battery, which on the 11th of August, was furnished with four ten-pounder Parrott guns. They moved on the 14th, to Jacinto, where they were employed in outpost duty, and were joined on the 14th of September by Lieutenants Harlow and Miles, with seventy-one recruits. Participating in the general movement of our forces, they left Jacinto on the 18th, nnd took part in the battle of Iuka on the following day, losing one man killed. In the evening, they were ordered forward in pursuit of the retreating enemy, and after two days' severe marching, the battery encamped at Jacinto, remaining until the 1st of October, when they moved towards Corinth, bivouacking within a short distance of the town. Shortly afterward, they were ordered to Corinth, where on the 3d and 4th they took part in the batte at that place, in which our troops repulsed the attack of the enemy under Price and Van Dorn. On the morning of the 5th, they moved in pursuit of the retreating enemy, and marching from place to place until the pursuit was abandoned, returned on the 14th to Corinth, where they went into camp, remaining in the discharge of garrison duty at that place until the 8th of November.

From this date, the battery was kept almost continually in motion from point to point in northern Mississippi and southern Tenessee, until the 4th of January, 1863, when they were stationed near Germantown, Tenn., in the performance of guard duty on the Memphis and Charleston railroad.

Leaving Germantown on the 8th of February, they marched to Memphis, where the battery remained in camp until the 1st of March, at which date they embarked, and proceeding down the Mississippi, landed at Grand Lake, Ark. Having remained here two days, they moved up the river, encamping in Arkansas, opposite the mouth of the Yazoo Pass. From this place they moved on the 4th, taking part in the Yazoo Pass expedition, and returned to camp on the 11th of April, remaining four days until the 16th, when they again embarked, and proceeding down the Mississippi, landed on the 18th at Milliken's Bend, La. Marching on the 25th, they proceeded across the country to a point on the river below Grand Gulf, where they crossed the Mississippi on the 1st of May, and marching in pursuit of the retreating enemy, passed through Port Gibson on the following day, encamping on Big Black River until the 9th, when they were again put in motion. At a distance of three miles from Raymond, our advance came in contact with the enemy. The battery was immediately hurried forward, going into position as the enemy began to give way. They were ordered forward in pursuit, and bivouacked for the night near the town.

Early on the following morning the march towards Jackson was resumed. In the action before that place on the 14th, the battery, although under fire, was not actively engaged, and next day commenced the advance towards Vicksburg. They occupied position near the centre of our forces, and on the left of the artillery line, on the 16th, during the battle of Champion Hills, and after the battle, moved forward to the Black River, where they were posted to guard the bridge. Bringing up the rear of our forces, they crossed the river on the 19th, and pressing forward, arrived on the afternoon of the following day, before the enemy's fortifications in the rear of Vicksburg. From this date, they were constantly employed in the duties of the siege until the surrender, after which they encamped near the city, remaining until the 12th of September, at which date they were placed on transports, proceeding up the Mississippi to reinforce General Steele's forces at Helena, Ark. On the 26th of September, they again embarked, and proceeding up the river, landed on the following day at Memphis, Tenn., where they remained in camp until the 6th of October, at which date they proceeded by rail to Corinth, Miss., and on the following day marched eight miles to Glendale, Miss., where they were employed in guarding the line of the Memphis and Charleston railroad.

As a portion of the troops under command of General Sherman, in his celebrated movement to the relief of Chattanooga and Knoxville, they left Glendale on the 18th, proceeding by way of Burns to Iuka, where they arrived on the 20th, and resuming the march thence on the 22d, arrived on the 24th at Dickson's Station, Ala., twenty-two miles east of Iuka, on the Memphis and Charleston railroad. They marched thence on the 29th, and crossing the Tennessee at Chickasaw Landing on the morning of the 1st of November, proceeded by way of Florence, Ala., Fayetteville and Cowan, Tenn., to Bridgeport, Ala., at which place they encamped on the 15th. On the 18th, they crossed the Tennessee River at this place, and recrossing the river during the march, encamped within two miles of Chattanooga. Early on the morning of the 20th, camp was moved three miles towards the front, and on the evening of the 23d, the battery took position on the bank of the Tennessee, to cover the passage of our infantry in the movement against Mission Ridge and Lookout Mountain.

They subsequently moved on the evening of the 26th to position near the upper pontoon bridge, and on the 3d of December, broke camp at this place, marching towards Bridgeport, where they encamped on the 5th, and remained in garrison until the 22d, at which date they were again put in motion, going into camp on the 26th at Larkinsville, Ala. They left Larkinsville on the 7th of January, 1864, and arrived on the 9th at Huntsville, where winter quarters were erected, and the battery was employed in garrison duty.

Shortly afterwards, they were furnished with three-inch Rodman guns in exchange for their former armament of ten-pounders, and the battery remained at this post as permanent garrison until the 22d of June, when they left Huntsville, and marching through Larkinsville and Bellefonte to Stevenson, Ala., from which place they proceeded by rail through Chattanooga, arrived on the 30th at Kingston, Ga. Here they remained until the 13th of July, when they again moved forward, taking position on the following day as a part of the garrison of Allatoona, Ga.

The Twelfth battery, on the 5th of October, 1864, participated in the celebrated defence of Allatoona, against the attack of the rebel forces under Major General French.

The first intimation of the enemy's presence was given before daylight by the report of musketry on the south side of the town. At this juncture a train arrived, bringing General Corse with a reinforcement of eight hundred men to the garrison. The train immediately started back for farther reinforcements, but was subsequently intercepted and did not return. At daylight, the enemy was discovered, planting a battery and constructing temporary works on an eminence about a mile from the fort, when one gun of the Twelfth battery was ordered outside the works to open fire. Five shots were fired from this gun, when the enemy opened with six pieces, but with the aid of the rest of the battery, which now opened fire, the gun was retained in this position for two hours, when the enemy ceased firing. Up to this time, the artillery alone had been engaged. At nine in the morning, a flag of truce was received, bearing the statement of the rebel commander that his forces had surrounded the position, and demanding the unconditional surrender of the garrison, which was of course refused.

On the return of the messenger, the rebel force, six thousand strong, immediately formed and advanced to the attack on the west and north, their battery being posted on the south, in front of our works. For three hours, a most sanguinary engagement was continued between the fort and its outer works, until the garrison had been forced back into the fort and the works contiguous. In this position the engagement wss continued with great gallantry on both sides, until the ammunition of the garrison was nearly exhausted, but three rounds of canister for each gun remaining. These were reserved until "the rebels could almost be touched throug the embrasures," when a terrible volley was delivered into the crowded ranks of the enemy. From this moment the attacking force wavered, and after a short struggle, broke and retreated. In this engagement, which lasted six hours, our battery lost six men killed and fifteen wounded.

The battery subsequently remained at Allatoona, until the 12th of November, when they marched forty miles to Atlanta, whence on the 15th, they set out on the march to Savannah. Accompanying the movement of the First division, Fifteenth corps, to which they were attached, they arrived on the 10th of December, at the outer defences of Savannah. On the 12th, one section of the battery was placed in position, twelve hundred yards from the rebel works, and next day. another section at six hundred yards, both sections being heavily engaged during the day. On the 14th, the first section was advanced to the position of the second, which they retained, under heavy fire from the rebel works, until the 21st of December, at which date they entered the city, which the enemy had evacuated during the preceding night.

They broke camp at Savannah on the 14th of January, 1865, and embarking at Fort Thunderbolt, arrived on the 16th at Beaufort, on Port Royal Island, S C. From Beaufort, they marched in a northwesterly direction, crossing the Savannah and Charleston railroad at Pocotaligo, and arriving on the 28th of January at McPhersonville, Resuming the march on the 1st of February, they arrived on the 16th at Columbia, which was next day occupied by our forces. They crossed the Wateree River on the 20th of February, passed through Liberty on the following day, and reached Goldsboro, N. C., on the 24th of March.

They broke camp at Goldsboro on the 10th of April, and having met but little opposition during the advance, entered Raleigh at noon on the 14th. The battery lay in camp four miles west of the city on Beaver Dam Creek, until the 29th of April, when they commenced the march for Washington, at which place they participated in the review of the 24th of May.

On the 7th of June, 1865, the Twelfth battery arrived at Madison, Wis., where they were mustered out on the 26th, to take effect from the date of their arrival in the state.

THIRTEENTH BATTERY.

The Thirteenth battery, of which seventy-one men, with a first lieutenant, were mustered into service on the 4th of November, 1863, was subsequently recruited to the maximum, under the superintendence of Captain Richard R. Griffith, and finally mustered into United States' service on the 29th of December.

They remained at Camp Washburn until the 28th of January, 1864, at which date they left Milwaukee for field service, under orders to report at New Orleans, La., and moving by rail via Chicago, they arrived on the morning of the 30th at Cairo, Ill. Here they immediately embarked, and proceeding down the Mississippi, landed on the 1st of February at Memphis, Tenn. After a delay of some days at this point, awaiting transportation, they again embarked on the 5th, and resuming their progress down the river, arrived on the 12th at New Orleans, where orders were received on the 17th to report at Baton Rouge, La., at which place they landed next day.

Here the battery, as yet unprovided with arms, was assigned to duty in Fort Williams, an earthwork surrounding the arsenal, and on the 16th of March, the men were armed with Springfield muskets, for guard and other duty, until equipped as light artillery. On the 24th, they were placed in charge of six heavy guns in the fort, and were thenceforward engaged in duty as heavy artillery, until the 17th of June, when they were ordered to the performance of provost duty in the city of Baton Rouge. They were relieved from this duty on the 8th of July, and returned to Fort Williams, where they took charge of seven barbette guns, and on the 10th, the battery was completely equipped as light artillery, taking the armament and equipments of a Vermont battery, whose term of service had expired.

They went into camp on the 15th, a short distance from the fort, and on the 4th of August, two sections of the battery, accompanying a body of cavalry, moved seven miles south to Highland Stockade, in anticipation of an attack upon that post. These two sections returned to camp on the 6th, without having encountered the rebels. The right section was subsequently ordered to return to Highland Stockade, and rejoined the battery on the 9th at Baton Rouge.

The Thirteenth battery remained at Baton Rouge, La., until mustered out of service, the date of which the records of this office do not furnish.

HEAVY ARTILLERY.

FIRST REGIMENT.

The record of battery A, First battalion Wisconsin heavy artillery, is identical with that of the Second infantry, from its organization down to the 25th of July, 1861.

At this date, three days after the celebrated battle of Bull Run, company K of the regiment, under command of Captain Langworthy, was detached to form part of the garrison of Fort Corcoran, on the heights near Washington. They remained in this post until the 28th of August, when they moved to Fort Marcy, near the chain bridge, and occupied the fort as garrison. Thence one-half of the company was ordered on the 12th of September, to the performance of garrison duty in Fort Ethan Allen, and also to instruct a regiment of infantry, then stationed there, in heavy artillery drill.

On the 10th of October, company K, in obedience to orders, rejoined the regiment, with which it was connected until the 9th of December, when, by order of the War Department, the company was permanently detached from the regiment, and organized as an artillery company, under the name of the First battery Wisconsin heavy artillery. By the same order they were placed in garrison at Fort Cass. While here, the battery was filled to the maximum by recruits, sent forward from Wisconsin, and the additional officers received their commissions.

During the retreat of the army of Virginia, under General Pope, a detachment of forty men from the battery was sent on the 28th of August, 1862, with three pieces of artillery, to garrison Fort Buffalo, an advanced post, where they were attacked by the enemy, who finding his attempts to shell them out ineffectual, soon withdrew. Immediate danger to the capital having passed, the detachment returned to Fort Cass on the 7th of September. They moved on the 27th of November, to Fort Ellsworth, and on the 12th of May, 1863, were transferred to Fort Worth. As to their efficiency in this branch of service, the following, which finds an appropriate place in their record, sufficiently speaks :

HEADQUARTERS INSPECTOR OF ARTILLERY, U. S. A.
Washington, May 27th, 1863.

Captain Meservey is an excellent artillery officer, and has now one of the best companies of foot artillery I have ever seen.

(Signed) WILLIAM F. BARRY,
Brig. General, Inspector of Artillery, U. S. A.

On the 8th of June, 1863, Captain Meservey was authorized by the Secretary of War, " to recruit a battalion, four batteries, of heavy artillery, using the First battery as a basis for that purpose." The required batteries were soon enrolled and mustered into service, the First taking position as battery A, First battalion of Wisconsin heavy artillery.

Immediately upon the receipt of the order of June 8th, 1863, from the War Department, authorizing Captain Meservey to recruit his command to a battalion, recruiting appointments were issued and volunteers were rapidly enrolled for this favorite branch of the service. On the 22d of August, a portion of battery B, under a first lieutenant, was mustered into United States' service, and on the 9th of September, the battery being meanwhile recruited to the maximum and fully organized, the muster into United States' service was completed.

Battery A moved in October, 1863, from Fort Worth, to Battery Rodgers, where they remained until May, 1864, during which month they were transferred to Fort Willard. They subsequently returned in August to Battery Rodgers, Va.

Battery B, which had been previously organized, left Camp Washburn, Milwaukee, in October, 1863, and was assigned to duty at Fort Terrell, Munfordsville, Ky. Here they remained until the 4th of January, 1864, at which date they moved to Lexington, Ky., taking position as garrison of Fort Clay.

Battery C was mustered into United States service on the 1st of October, 1863, left Camp Washburn for active service on the 30th, and proceeding by way of Indianapolis, was assigned position in Fort Wood, Chattanooga, Tenn. They moved in January, 1864, to Fort Creighton, and subsequently, in May, to Fort Sherman, Chattanooga.

Battery D was mustered into service on the 7th of November, 1863, and left Camp Washburn on the 1st of February, 1864, under orders to report at New Orleans, La., where they arrived on the 9th. Re-embarking on the 18th, they proceeded down the Mississippi to Fort Jackson, where they landed on the following day and took position as garrison of the post. They left Fort Jackson on the 23d of July, 1864, and on the 26th were assigned position in Fort Berwick, near Brashear City, La.

In pursuance of General Orders No. 21, from this office, dated September 14th, 1864, the work of recruiting eight companies, the number necessary to complete the regimental organization, was at once commenced, and batteries L and M left Camp Randall for active service on the 30th of September.

Companies E and F, of the First heavy artillery, left Camp Randall on the 3d of October, 1864; company H, on the 7th of October, company K, on the 17th of October, and companies G and I, on the 12th of November. These batteries reported at the headquarters of the regiment and were assigned to duty in the defences of Washington, as a part of the Fourth brigade, De Russey's division, of the Twenty-second army corps.

Battery B remained at Lexington, Ky, until the 30th of August 1865, at which date the company was mustered out and discharged from service.

Battery C occupied Fort Sherman, Chattanooga, Tenn., until the 29th of March, 1865, when they moved by rail to Athens, Tenn, fifty-nine miles from Chattanooga, on the East Tennessee and Georgia railroad. On the 5th of April they marched six miles to Mouse Creek, at which point the battery was stationed* until the 3d of July, when they left Mouse Creek by rail, arriving next day at Strawberry Plains, Tenn. Battery C was mustered out at Nashville, Tenn., on the 21st of September, 1865, and arrived on the 25th at Madison, Wisconsin, where they were paid and disbanded.

Battery D was occupied in garrison duty at Brashear City, La., until the month of June, 1865, when they were ordered to Washington.

The remaining nine companies of this regiment were engaged in garrison duty in the defences of Washington, until the 26th of June, 1865, when those members of the regiment, whose term of service would expire prior to the 1st of October, comprising the companies from E to M, inclusive, were mustered out of service. These companies reached Milwaukee, Wisconsin, on the 1st of July, and were soon afterwards paid and disbanded.

Companies A and D, were mustered out at Washington on the 18th of August, 1865. The date of their arrival in the state has not been reported to this office.

* The following official recognition of the character of this company requires no comment:

"Hd. Qrs. 2d Brigade, 4th Div. D. C.
Knoxville, Tenn., June 3, 1865.

Captain:—The colonel commanding takes pleasure in inviting your attention to the following extract from the report of the A. A. Inspector-General of the brigade:

'Company C, 1st Wisconsin Heavy Art'y is in splendid condition. Captain Davies is a very energetic and efficient officer. This is clearly indicated by the condition of his command.'

Very respectfully
Your obedient servant,
(Signed) W. S. BRADFORD, A. A. A. G."

Captain J. R. Davies,

MONTHLY RETURNS, BI-MONTHLY MUSTER, AND MUSTER-OUT ROLLS.

Among the various measures taken to secure regimental information prior to the present year, none have proved so effective and generally useful as the monthly return, to which allusion has been made in my former reports, and of which there has been with but little exception, a systematic and regular receipt from the various organizations, since the spring of 1862. There was however much needed information which did not properly appear upon these returns, and deeming it not only desirable but proper that the state should be possessed of any and all public information pertaining to the interests and welfare of her soldiers, I addressed a letter to the Secretary of War requesting that copies of the bi-monthly muster rolls might be furnished this office, and that on the muster-out of the regiments a copy of those rolls might also be deposited there. To this request, reply was made that it was "not deemed desirable." Deeming the matter of such importance as to require further action, I addressed the second and following letter to the department:

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF WISCONSIN,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Madison, September 5, 1864.

MAJOR:—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 25th ult., in which, in reply to my request of the 15th ult., that provision be made for filing a copy of the Muster-out rolls of each Wisconsin organization in this office, it is stated "that it is not deemed desirable that any more muster rolls be made than is required by the Army Regulations." And further, that "the retained copies held by company commanders, should be obtained for the use of your (my) office."

Permit me, Major, to state as briefly as possible, a few reasons which appear to me of sufficient weight to render proper a more thorough revision of the matter before adopting as final the decision indicated.

The continuance of the war has shown the propriety, if not necessity, of filing in the archives of the state, complete record of the prominent facts in the military history of each volunteer furnished by her for the service of the United States.

In recognition of this necessity, the War Department, within a comparatively short time, has directed that muster-in rolls of all officers and enlisted men mustered into United States service, be filed in the office of the Adjutant General of the state, furnishing the organization to which they are attached. For the same reason all transfers or promotions of volunteers are officially reported to the same officer in his capacity of custodian of the military records of the state.

This necessity has therefore already been recognized in the official proceedings of the War Department.

If then it has appeared just that the state should be informed of the muster-into service of the volunteer whom she has furnished under the call of the General Government, it would seem proper that information should also be furnished of the completion of his term of service, and that among the permanent records of the state, it should appear whether he has died, deserted or been honorably discharged from the service.

With reference to the retained copies held by company commanders, it should be observed that the state has no authority over the officers in question which would enable her to demand such copies. In the volunteer service the company commander is generally mustered out with his company, and the rolls never come within reach of state authority. Besides, it may be asked, if these rolls are of no importance to the officer, why should they be furnished him, while the request of the state is refused? If they are necessary for his use, it would, of course, be improper for the State to demand them from him.

The provisions of the Army Regulations referred to appear to have been prepared with reference to the needs of the Regular Service, in which it is not contemplated that an entire company, with its officers, will be mustered out of service at the same time, and the reserved copy of the company commander becomes a portion of the company records.

Without attempting to enlarge upon any right which the state may possess, entitling her to a record of her citizens in the service of the United States, it is respectfully requested that the matter may be reconsidered; and that, if no objection exists, Mustering Officers be directed to send to this office direct, the muster-out rolls, heretofore furnished the company commanders.

I am, Major, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

AUG. GAYLORD,
Adjutant General.

Major SAMUEL BRECK, A. A. G.,
War Department.

To which communication the following reply was received:

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., Oct., 26, 1864.

SIR—I have the honor to inform you, that in order to facilitate the settlement of claims against the states, the commanding officers of regiments and independent organizations will be directed to furnish the following additional rolls and information to the Adjutant General of the state under the circumstances as explained, upon their application through this office.

1ST. Where the state authorities pay a regular monthly pay to soldiers or their families, one copy of the bi-monthly muster and pay roll.

2D. Where the state authorities pay a bounty, &c., to discharged soldiers, one copy of the muster-out roll.

3D. In all cases of death, information thereof, if desired for the settlement of claims against the state, and for no other purpose,

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
SAMUEL BRECK.
Assistant Adjutant General.

Brig. General A. GAYLORD,
Adjt. Gen. State of Wis.

The position of the state brought it within the provisions of the regulations adopted, and announced in the foregoing letter. Application was made, and orders were issued by the War Department to commanding officers of our regiments, directing that this office be furnished in the future with the rolls referred to.

Aside from the information necessary to the Secretary of State in the issue of warrants and protection of the treasury in the payment of extra pay, the above named rolls now secured to the state, are together invaluable in the present and future in settlement of soldier's claims, and constitute in themselves a valuable history of the part borne by Wisconsin in this war.

The rolls are now all deemed secure against loss by fire, being filed in what is constructed for a fire-proof vault, connected with this office.

MILITARY HISTORY.

Pursuant to the instructions of the last Legislature, directing measures to correct and complete the records of this office, I immediately caused proper blanks to be prepared, and forwarded to the several organizations, with the following letter addressed to each regimental and company commander:

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF WISCONSIN,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Madison, May 15th, 1865.

To the Officer commanding.....Reg't Wis. Vols:

DEAR SIR:—The legislature of Wisconsin at its last session, passed an act authorizing and instructing the Adjutant General of the state "to take such measures as shall in his judgment be deemed necessary to correct and complete the records of his office, to the end that there shall be complete muster and descriptive rolls, with all subsequent information attainable, pertaining to the military history of each individual member of the several military organizations from this state, * * * in the service of the Government during the present rebellion."

Of course the intent of, and my ability to comply with the above requirement, looks to and is dependent largely upon the assistance which I may receive from the officers in command, in furnishing the information from the regimental and company records.

To facilitate the labor necessary, I have caused to be prepared and forwarded to each regiment, blanks in the form of Company Books, which give space and opportunity to fill out not only the ordinary muster and descriptive roll, but also the military history of each individual, and in which should be recorded the name of every man who has been a member of the company from the original organization to the present time, with as full and complete a military history of each as your records will enable you to furnish. The names of such men as were recruited and who were subsequently discharged, or who deserted, or died before muster, should also appear, with appropriate remarks.

I have no doubt that you already recognize the desirability of a record which shall, as far as possible, set forth in detail the part borne by each and every volunteer from our state, and which, deposited in the archives of the capitol, shall afford useful and ofttimes necessary information, in our own time, in facilitating the payment of claims, and securing pensions to the families of those who have fallen in the service, and which shall also remain a monument of the patriotic endurance of Wisconsin soldiers, which—more and more effulgent through coming years—shall reflect their confidence in the worth and stability of this Government, and the character and conduct of those whose lives were freely offered in the contest for its life and perpetuity.

Aside from the difficulty of procuring copies of your regimental and company records after the disbandment of the armies, what is scarcely of less importance to the record contemplated, the opportunity to gather facts and incidents from personal observation relative to many, will in the dispersal of the organizations have also passed out of reach and beyond recall.

I therefore earnestly urge that you will cause this matter to receive immediate attention, in order that the books may be completed, properly certified, and mailed or expressed to this office at the expense of the state.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
AUG. GAYLORD,
Adjutant General.

The gathering of so large a number of our regiments, preparatory to the grand review at Washington in May last, afforded an excellent opportunity to visit the regiments and to urge the importance of completing the records while the officers were comparatively at leisure. Much of the success there resulting is due to the labors of your Excellency and General Lucius Fairchild, which in connection with my own, were active and constant to secure the result sought. Of the entire number due, something more than one-half have at this date been received, and many are yet in the hands of officers mustered out, for completion, and from whom they will in most instances be received. An expression of interest in the success of the project was evidenced almost uniformly by officers of our regiments, and prompt measures taken to secure its fulfillment. The information from some few of the regiments mustered out before this record was proposed, and such other as fail entirely to respond, will necessarily be procured in part from the records at Washington. This will, however, be but a small portion of the total. I was prosecuting, and had hoped to complete this labor through the use of the regimental records turned over to the chief mustering officer by our returned regiments at muster-out. It was closed in November last, by an order upon Colonel Giddings to forward the records immediately to Washington, prior to which, request had been made that they might be temporarily turned over to this office for the purpose indicated.

Most, if not all of the Adjutants General of northern states have already issued, or are now preparing to issue, a list or catalogue of members of the regiments of their respective states. I have postponed any publication of this character, deeming that a completed work would be better than a partial one, which would necessitate additional publications of a like character.

The material collected in the descriptive books before mentioned, will afford an excellent opportunity to give not only the list of names, but also a brief record of individual service. Such a record will constitute a book of fifteen hundred or two thousand pages, and as it does not come directly within the province of a report, I respectfully suggest a resolution directing its publication, if deemed desirable.

STATE AGENTS.

The location of State Agents during the time they were engaged as such the past year, was as follows. Mrs. C. A. P. Harvey's labors were confined to the hospitals of the lower Mississippi, from Memphis to New Orleans. Mr. George W. Sturges, principally at St. Louis and surrounding hospitals.

Mr. W. Y. Selleck, assisted during the early part of the year by Mr. Ostrander, was engaged in the many hospitals at and around Washington, and Mr. E. L. Jones at Nashville, Tenn.

The labors of these agents being no longer required, they have been relieved from the different posts as their services became unnecessary. Their reports having been during the year, as heretofore, made to the state executive, and in most instances published, no mention is perhaps necessary from me in this report: Much credit is due for the devotion manifested, and the energy with which they have pursued their labors, the arduous character of which can be little known or appreciated by those unfamiliar with them. The benison of many a dying soldier rests upon them as their richest reward.

HOSPITALS.

Aside from the changes incident to the muster-out of regiments, the necessity for hospital accommodations was materially lessened by orders from the War Department, May 4, 1865, directing that "all soldiers, patients in hospitals, (except veteran volunteers, veterans of the First army corps and soldiers of the regular army,) will as soon as they shall cease to require medical treatment, be at once mustered out of service in the usual manner."

Under subsequent orders from the War Department, the main hospital in this state, known as the Harvey U. S. A. General Hospital, was discontinued in August, and the inmates still requiring treatment, transferred to the branch hospital at Camp Randall, Surgeon Howard Culbertson, U. S. Vols., remaining in charge until the 15th of October, when the patients were all transferred to the Post Hospital at the same place and Colonel Culbertson mustered out.

Among the many courtesies for which this office is indebted to that gentleman, is the following tabular statement of the admission and dismissal of patients at Harvey Hospital, from the date of its opening until its close:

Report of changes at Harvey General Hospital, from October 27, 1863, to October 15, 1865, when it was closed, under charge of Surgeon Howard Culbertson, U. S. Vols.

No. of patients admitted.	No. of patients returned to duty.	Transferred to other Hospitals.	Transferred to Veteran Reserve Corps.	Patients discharged.	Patients deserted.	Patients deceased.	Patients on furlough.
4058	1372	597	173	1613	129	92	82

Respectfully furnished for the information of General Gaylord by

HOWARD CULBERTSON,

Late Surgeon U. S Vols., in charge.

The exceedingly small per centage of deaths is a noticeable feature in the above exhibit, which speaks favorably for the professional skill of Colonel Culbertson.

The Swift General Hospital at Prairie du Chien, under the superintendence of A. A. Surgeon F. W. Kelly, U. S. A., was closed in the latter part of August, and that in Milwaukee, in charge of A. A. Surgeon A. Kelly, U. S. A., in the early part of September. Statistical items from these Hospitals, which I had contemplated giving in this report, are not in my possession.

TROPHIES.

The proper exhibition of the returned state and national colors of our regiments is a subject so fully presented by the Quartermaster general in his report for the current year, that officer being the custodian, as to need no mention from me. I cannot refrain, however, from urging his suggestions upon the consideration of the legislature.

These tattered flags are the occasion of many a visit to the state capitol from those who for years marched under their folds, defending them with patriotic care through strife and thick dangers, and which they now greet as a familiar friend; and from parents whose sons went down to death beneath their stars, that with "not one erased" and unpolluted by traitor hands, it might forever float the flag of the free.

Not only their careful preservation, but their proper exhibition is a duty which we owe alike to the gratification of the living and the memory of the dead.

In the completion of the rotunda of the capitol, an excellent opportunity will be afforded for a proper display of these trophies, and it is respectfully urged that it or some other place be designated and prepared for this purpose.

THE RECORDS OF ANDERSONVILLE,

Whose infamous page is made more hideous by the light of the illustrious names, and whose once foul domain is now consecrated by patriot dust, bears on its list and beneath its sod, thank God, but few, but all too many, of the sons of Wisconsin. It has been most truly said of the sufferings of Union prisoners in rebel hands, that "no explanation can relieve, and no apology tone down its hideous picture."

"As we go away from it down the years of history, it will neither lose ruggedness nor gain softer tints; but like a mountain which cannot be seen from its near base, but seems to spread out as you recede; so this vast atrocity will spread black against the sky down to the end of time."

Across that blackness shall ever shine in letters of light the names of the suffering patriot and the martyred dead.

From one, himself a sufferer at Andersonville,* I have received a carefully prepared list of those from our state who died at that place; complete so far as he could ascertain, and which is appended to this report in paper "D." It affords not only a melancholy relief by the removal of uncertainty as to the fate, but by the designation of burial place will enable some to visit the graves of friends.

To these and all others from our state whose lives have been given to this great struggle, we owe some fitting memorial. Here at the capital, where they received and from which they bore the flag they were to defend and sustain; the place from which, with stout hearts, strong arms and buoyant step, they went to battle for the nation's life; here let a fitting memorial proclaim their deeds of heroism, and evince a people's gratitude and love.

I respectfully urge upon the legislature an early consideration of this subject.

STATE MILITIA.

The militia system of the state is an utter failure. While I respectfully urge that this state of affairs should no longer exist, I have no additional suggestions to make respecting the present law beyond those already presented in the last two annual reports. In my opinion, no time can be more propitious than the coming season for a reorganization of the state militia.

Give it a new name, the "National Guard," or any other distinctive name, and a new law, in which our experience and that of all other states indicates there should be two clearly defined provisions; first, compelling service from the whole arms-bearing population, and, secondly, the encouragement of Independent organizations by assistance in the purchase of uniforms, and a per diem for specified service in drill and parade. In my opinion, a fund can be created by a light exemption or commutation tax, which will, at least after the first year, much more than sustain one regiment in each congressional district, or six throughout the state.

No enrollment was made the present year, it being deemed discretionary with the Governor, and the results obtained last year, not warranting the expense.

OFFICE MATTERS.

The clerical force of the office is now mainly occupied in furnishing certificates of service, information of death necessary in procuring back pay, bounties and pensions, with other varied duties consequent upon the closing of the war, and especially in the completion of the records accumulated in the more pressing months of labor, which not then absolutely necessary, can now be more correctly and economically closed. The number of clerks has been lately reduced by the discharge of two, and in the contemplated changes, will leave but five besides the Adjutant General, engaged in the labors of the office. So fast as they can be relieved from other more urgent labors, these will be engaged in the completion of the military history directed by the last legislature, in which the employment of those familiar with the records will be a true economy.

To reduce the number immediately beyond that now employed, would do violence to the interests of both the state and the soldiers. After the completion of the record before mentioned, the force can undoubtedly be further reduced, until the duties will require one or two persons. The office must necessarily be kept open and an active one at least so long as the requirements for information from its records are necessary for the welfare of those whose interests it is intended to subserve.

Some idea of the labors of the office during the past four years may be formed from the following data: There have been eighteen thousand three hundred and six letters written between April, 1861, and the present date, and during the same time twenty thousand two hundred and nineteen certificates, of one character and another, made from its records. The total number of commissions issued during the war is eight thousand three hundred and twenty-five, all of which, with subsequent changes, were duly recorded. A large amount of labor was involved in the keeping of a book of credits to sub-districts, in which the name of each individual recruited or drafted subsequent to October 12, 1863, has been entered, with the date of muster into the service, to the proper locality. As the records of the Assistant Provost Marshal General gave only the numerical data, the information afforded by these records was invaluable to parties from the several towns seeking to regulate or correct their account for troops furnished.

I have appended in paper B a statement showing the whole quota of the several sub-districts in the state, under the calls of February first, March fourteenth, July eighteenth and December nineteenth, 1864, and also the quota of the several congressional districts under calls prior to October 12, 1863; with the total credit to each as appears by the book of credits above mentioned.

Copies of the "monthly reports" and such other information as is required by the Secretary of State in the payment of state aid, have been promptly made to that office, requiring the labor of one and sometimes two clerks for that business alone.

To the gentlemen composing the clerical force of the office, much credit is due for the zealous and faithful performance of the labors devolving upon them. Courteous and attentive to the inquiries for information from soldiers or citizens, I believe that all will bear witness to their gentlemanly conduct and efficient labors for the state.

To them I extend my warmest thanks for the personal interest evinced, and their active co-operation in the labors of the office.

REVIEW.

In the preparation of this report, it occurs to me that a review of the main points of interest, of state action connected with the raising of troops during the war, may properly be given in this, the closing year of the rebellion, and I therefore submit the main items which present themselves to my mind, without attempt at elaborate detail, and giving them prominence as they transpired in the several years, rather than in a connected treatment of any one subject through the entire period.

The character and cause of the rebellion are not subjects within the scope of this proposed review, and are left to the exposition of others. The fact existed. Rebellion had fired its first gun. The question was no longer one of party strife or sectional difference; the life of the nation was sought and endangered, and through every hamlet of the north the patriot people felt the shock and sprang to its defence. Wisconsin, yet among the younger of her sister states, always at peace within her borders, and absorbed through varied industry in the higher development of her latent wealth, threw aside the implements of labor, joining with the common impulse in the one purpose of maintaining the supremacy and integrity of the national government.

Our state was fortunate in having for her Governor at this juncture a man not only devotedly attached to her interests and the national welfare, but far-seeing, sagacious and self-reliant.

The legislature had, just at the close of its annual session the present year, passed an act authorizing the Governor to take such measures as should enable him to respond in the most efficient and speedy manner to the calls of the General Government, and the first call for troops pursuant to the proclamation of the President of the United States, and directing the organization of one regiment, (the number required from this state), was answered by the people within ten days with the number requisite for five regiments. So great was the enthusiasm, that strife was engendered between companies in their endeavor to secure positions in the service.

Sharing in the not uncommon belief that the Government would have need of a larger body of troops than indicated in the proclamation of the President, Governor Randall directed the organization of five additional regiments, which he immediately proceeded to uniform and equip. In the subsequent change of term of service from three months to three years, but one company withdrew, its members quite generally joining other companies.

The legislature at its extra session in May of this year, authorized the Governor "to raise, organize and receive into the service of the state two additional, (to six already organized), regiments of infantry, to be held as a reserve force, subject to be mustered into the service of the United States, and as often as any call shall be made by the General Government, and the forces then enrolled shall be mustered into the service of the United States it shall be lawful for the Governor to accept the services of so many additional volunteers as shall be constantly equal to two regiments of reserve force enrolled in advance of any requisition made upon this state."

Under the provisions of this act, the Seventh and Eighth regiments were recruited, organized and accepted by the General Government. On the 20th of August, request was made by the Secretary of War for five additional regiments, and under this and subsequent calls during the year, the Governor directed the organization of twenty regiments, and one company (sharpshooters) of infantry, including the old First "three months" reorganized; and one company of cavalry from Milwaukee, which joined the Fourth regiment of Missouri cavalry.

These were all officered under Governor Randall's adminstration, and all with the exception of the Nineteenth were fully equipped by the state with the exception of arms. The Nineteenth was armed and equipped by the General Government, through its commanding officer. A regiment of artillery, authorized and subsequently assigned to duty by companies, and its regimental organization destroyed, was also uniformed and equipped by the War Department, ordnance being furnished at the front. Three regiments of cavalry, raised under special permission given by the War Department to individuals, were also armed and fully equipped by the General Government. It is unnecessary to report details respecting the command or numerical strength, which have before been given, and may again be found in the tables appended to this report. The total number of troops recruited during this year, as approximated in the report of my predecessor, was twenty-three thousand, two hundred and thirty-two, (23,232.) Camps of rendezvous were necessarily established at different points in the state, and were located at Madison, Milwaukee, Racine, Kenosha, Janesville, Fond du Lac, and temporarily at Oshkosh and Ripon. In the performance of these labors, Governor Randall was assisted by the following military staff, in which work, new to Wisconsin, and without the advantages of precedents or experience, each exhibited an ability and fidelity in the performance of his arduous duties, which contributed largely to the efficiency and fame of Wisconsin soldiers:

MILITARY STAFF.

WILLIAM L. UTLEY,..... Adjutant General.
HENRY K. WHITE,..... Assistant Adjutant General.
W. W. TREDWAY,..... Quartermaster General.
N. B. VAN SLYKE,..... Assistant Quartermaster General.
JAMES HOLTON,..... Assistant Quartermastor General.

EDWIN R. WADSWORTH,..... Commissary General.
FRANKLIN Z. HICKS,..... Assistant Commissary General.
SIMEON D. CLOUGH,..... Assistant Commissary General.
SIMEON MILLS,..... Paymaster General.
JAMES R. MEARS,..... Assistant Paymaster General.
E. B. WOLCOTT,..... Surgeon General.
THOMAS STEPHENS,..... Inspector General.
E. L. BUTTRICK,..... Judge Advocate.
WILLIAM H. WATSON,..... Military SIcretary.

1862.

Louis P. Harvey having been elected governor of the state the preceding autumn, assumed the executive position on the 6th of January. His military staff was announced as follows:

AUGUSTUS GAYLORD,..... Adjutant General.
E. H. BRODHEAD,..... Quartermaster General.
EDWIN R. WADSWORTH,..... Commissary General.
SIMEON MILLS,..... Paymaster General.
E. B. WOLCOTT,..... Surgeon General.
W. H. WATSON,..... Military Secretary.

The following extract from my report for 1862, will give as succinctly as I should now be able, the position of the military affairs of the state at the opening of the year :

"At the commencement of the present year, there had been organized, equipped and sent from the state ten regiments of infantry, one company of cavalry, and one company of Sharpshooters exclusive of the three months regiment. There were, at that date, remaining in the state, either already organized or in process of formation, the Ninth, and from the Twelfth to the Nineteenth inclusive, of infantry; three regiments of cavalry and ten batteries of artillery. Of these, the Ninth, or German regiment—recruited mostly from Milwaukee and the Lake Shore—was completed. The Twelfth, stationed at Camp Randall, was in readiness and awaiting orders. The Thirteenth, encamped at Janesville, also in readiness, and the first to receive marching orders, left the state on the ninth of January for Fort Leavenworth. The Fourteenth—rendezvoused at Fond du Lac—was yet engaged in recruiting companies to the maximum. The Fifteenth, recruited under the auspices of Colonel Hans C. Heg, late State Prison Commissioner, and composed mainly of Scandinavians, was engaged in recruiting and was mustered at Camp Randall on the 13th of February. The Sixteenth, already above the minimum, was still adding to its numbers, while awaiting orders. The Seventeenth, being recruited under the immediate auspices of Colonel J. L. Doran, and made up almost entirely of persons of Irish birth, was mustered at Madison, on the 18th day of March. The Eighteenth, yet organizing and mustering companies, was ordered into camp at Milwaukee on the 16th day of January. Colonel H. T. Sanders—having just at the close of the preceding year, been commissioned, with special permission from the War Department, to raise the Nineteenth regiment as an "Independent acceptance"—entered immediately upon the work, and having met with signal success, encamped at Racine in the month of March. The three regiments of cavalry, and seven batteries of artillery, were already in camp completing their organization, the regiments of cavalry being located respectively at Kenosha, Milwaukee and Janesville, and the artillery at Racine. The Eighth and Tenth batteries were soon added at Racine; the Ninth being at Burlington."

The labors in this department during the first months of the year were chiefly in the completion of the above named regiments.

In the organization of the deparment of the Mississippi, under Major General H. W. Halleck, nearly all of these troops were ordered to report at St. Louis, and left the state before the first of April.

The General Government having assumed the subsistence, equipment and payment of all troops, steps were taken to close the accounts and active duties of the state Quartermaster, Commissary and Paymaster Generals' bureaus. General Brodhead having declined the position of Quartermaster General, tendered by Governor Harvey, General W. W. Tredway was continued in position for the purpose above indicated.

Meantime the Union forces were being reorganized for the spring campaign, which opened in the Western department in the battle of Shiloh, on the 6th and 7th of April, and in which Wisconsin was represented by the Fourteenth, Sixteenth and Eighteenth regiments, all of which suffered severely in this, their first engagement.

On receipt of the news of this battle, Governor Harvey, accompanied by Surgeon General Wolcott and a staff of nurses and assistants, left immediately for the front, to render such assistance in the care and removal of the wounded as should be deemed practicable. After days and nights of personal labor, the results he sought were, so far as within human exertion, accomplished. The last boat-load of sufferers had been sent to more comfortable surroundings; and rejoicing in the success of his labors, the Governor was himself about to embark for home, when the fatal step was taken, and the waters of the Tennessee became his grave.

Upon the death of Governor Harvey, the position of Chief Executive devolved upon Lieutenant Governor Edward Salomon, who immediately assumed the duties.

On the 12th of April, a telegram was received from Brigadier General W. K. Strong, commanding at Cairo, Ill., stating that six hundred and ninety-five rebel prisoners had that day been forwarded by steamboat to Prairie du Chien, for safe keeping within this state. Camp Randall, at Madison, afforded the best facilities for this purpose, to which the prisoners were assigned under guard of the Nineteenth Wisconsin, the only regiment remaining in the state. The number of prisoners was subsequently increased by two hundred and fifty from the same source, and some four hundred from Chicago, making a total of nearly fourteen hundred, the most at one time in camp. They were mainly from Alabama and Tennessee regiments, captured at Island 10 and Shiloh, and included the inmates of a rebel hospital, among whom the deaths principally occurred

Under the immediate direction of Captain N. B. Van Slyke, ssistant Quartermaster at this post, these prisoners received the me subsistence and medical care as our own troops. They were signed to barracks which our regiments left for the front; the ck were permitted the attendance of rebel (prisoner) surgeons om Chicago, in addition to our post surgeons, and were supplied ith all needed medicines and sanitary stores. Their dead were ecently interred adjoining our own "Soldiers' Rest," a head-oard indicating the name, company and regiment and the date of eath of each individual.

By subsequent orders from the War Department, the prisoners ere all transferred to Camp Douglas in Chicago, early in June.

Very many of these prisoners were mere boys, and it was a ost gratifying evidence of the spirit which animated the loyal eople in this contest, that the women of this city, and having elatives in the Union ranks, were most active and solicitous for e comfort of the sick of these rebels, in common with our own.

While our hearts chill in the remembrance of the atrocities of ndersonville, they rejoice in these evidences of a true humanity.

Under the call of the President in May, 1862, for seventy-five housand additional troops, requisition was again made upon this tate for but one regiment, and measures were immediately dopted for its organization. The order of the War Department, pril third, directing the suspension of the recruiting service, ad changed the current of popular feeling as to the needs of the overnment, and those who two months previous would have been uick to respond, had now sought other avocations, and for the rst time recruiting became real labor. The subsequent call f July second for three hundred thousand (300,000) volunteers, owever, awakened the latent patriotism of the people.

New regiments were ordered, and recruiting was carried forward ith rapidity to an extent before unequaled. So rapid was the nlistment of recruits in this and other states under this call that he War Department acknowledged its inability to furnish imme-iate supplies for so large an influx of men, and the people of his state were by general order requested to furnish blankets for he comfort of volunteers in their several localities. These volun-eers constituted twelve complete regiments, and two (the Twenty-eventh and Thirty-first) of about one-half regiment each.

It subsequently appeared that in a general settlement with all the states for troops furnished in 1861 and to the present date (1862), the state was yet deficient in numbers, and under the provisions of the call of the President, dated August 4th, 1862, draft was ordered to complete the quota. Under this act, the direction and control of the draft whenever necessary, was vested in the governors of the several states, and measures were accordingly adopted for its accomplishment in this state. A thorough enrollment was necessary of all persons liable to military duty, and the sheriffs of the several counties were directed to employ such assistance as was necessary for its immediate completion.

This labor developed for the first any latent opposition to the service, or governmental authority, and in but a limited portion of the state, occasioned only some little trouble and delay in enrollment, and the lists after correction by the commissioners, were received at this office. The assignment of quotas, credit for former enlistments, and all statistical matter connected with the draft devolved upon this office, which being completed, draft was made on the 10th of November, and at subsequent dates in all counties deficient. In but two counties, Ozaukee and Washington, was there any violent opposition. In the former an organized opposition was scattered by a battalion of the Twenty-eighth regiment sent from Milwaukee, and one hundred and twenty of the leaders arrested and held in confinement at Madison until turned over to and released by the United States authorities. This prompt and decisive action on the part of Governor Salomon was most salutary in its effect, and settled the question of any further opposition. The latter half of the year was marked by excessive labor. The number of persons recruited for the service during the year was fifteen thousand and forty-two (15,042).

The labors of the early part of this year were principally in the organization of the Thirty-fourth (nine months' conscript) regiment, and recruiting of four companies of artillery, three of which, with the original company A, constituted a battalion of heavy artillery, and the fourth company was organized as the Thirteenth battery of light artillery. The Twenty-seventh and Thirty-first infantry were also completed and sent to the front.

Steps were now being taken by the General Government for a draft in all the states, under the provisions of the act of Congress, approved March 3d, 1863; which provided for a draft of one-fifth of the first class enrolled, of designated ages; and contained also what is known as the commutation clause. The Provost Marshal General's bureau was established at Washington with assistants and District Marshals in each state, and a new enrollment of persons liable to service ordered through special deputies. Announcement was made of the total quota of this state, and also the quota of congressional districts, but no public indication was given as to what would constitute the sub-districts of the state, nor was any defined method of procedure determined upon by the Assistant Provost Marshal General of this state. Up to this date, no definite settlement had been obtained with the General Government for troops heretofore furnished. Through correspondence and the personal visit of Governor Salomon to Washington, it was finally effected and a new account opened on the 12th of October, with a credit to the state of four thousand three hundred and fifty-two (4,352), as an excess over all calls, to apply on the then pending draft.

On the 17th of October, another call was issued by the President, for three hundred thousand (300,000) volunteers, and that the people of sub-districts might have at least an approximate knowledge of what was required of them, application was made to the Assistant Provost Marshal General for copies of the United States enrollment, already in his hands, and upon this basis an assignment of the quota of each congressional district was made to the towns and wards of the state, designating each as a sub-district. This assignment was given to the public in General Orders No. 21, series of 1863, from this office, and the people urged to active exertions in raising their quotas by volunteering. The War Department subsequently adopted the sub-divisions of the state, and the assignment of the quota, as promulgated in General Orders No. 21. There were active labors in some localities to secure volunteers, but no general enthusiasm was elicited.

A draft followed in November of this year for fourteen thousand nine hundred and thirty-five (14,935) men. The results obtained by the General Government were eight hundred and eighty (880) drafted men and substitutes, and one million five hundred and twenty-four thousand and three hundred ($1,524,300) dollars from five thousand and eighty-one persons, who paid commutation.

Orders were also issued from the War Department on the 23d of June, for the re-enlistment of soldiers from old organizations, who were to be designated as "Veterans."

The date of original service did not bring many of our regiments within the scope of this order until late in the year, and but little was done in this direction until December and January of the succeeding year, under which date further mention is made.

The two years (this and the preceding) now closing, constituted a most laborious term to both the Executive and this office.

The first draft in the state was during this period enforced. A false view of this service was in some degree apparent; the name of conscript was an assumed opprobrium by many, and a prejudice existed, not so much against the service, as the manner of entering it. Individual restraint could not be readily endured, and the idea of being compelled to any service without a self-election was galling to the vanity of a people vaunting their perfect freedom. This rendered the enforcement of the first draft a peculiarly delicate and laborious procedure.

The gradual transfer of control in the organization of troops, from the state to the General Government occasioned also frequent and perplexing questions in the recruiting service. These and other difficulties surrounding his position, were met and surmounted by Governor Salomon with firmness, wisdom and marked ability.

Governor James T. Lewis assumed the duties of Chief Executive of the state on the fourth of January, 1864. His military staff was organized as follows:

AUGUSTUS GAYLORD..... Adjutant General and Chief of Staff.
NATHANIEL F. LUND,.....Quartermaster and Commissary General.
B. B. WOLCOTT, M. D.,.....Surgeon General.
S. NYE GIBBS, ...Assistant Adjutant General.
FRANK H. FIRMIN,.....Military Secretary.

The opening year did not present a flattering prospect to the volunteering service. The draft under the call of 1863 was not yet completed, and for the time there was a disposition to abide its results exclusively in determining who should serve, a feeling which had been engendered among the people by the action of the War Department in the disposition of credits prior to October 12, 1863. Under the modification of the draft act by Congress now in session, the number required under the calls of 1863 was merged in a new call by the President, on the first of February, 1864, for five hundred thousand (500,000) volunteers, and it was ordered that a new assignment of quotas be made, and that each sub-district be credited upon the new call with the number of men obtained by the foregoing draft, a total of five thousand eight hundred and seven (5,807). This and the subsequent call of March 14th, for two hundred thousand (200,000) additional troops, awoke new life and active exertion in volunteering. The Thirty-sixth, Thirty-seventh and Thirty eighth regiments were organized, and a large number of recruits secured to regiments in the field.

The re-enlisted veterans before alluded to numbered five thousand seven hundred and eighty-two (5,782), which were credited under the call of February 1st to the several sub-districts entitled. These, with the exertions made throughout the state, secured the complement of volunteers, and the quota under the call was announced full by the War Department. The veteran organizations generally came home during the early months of this year, under the permission given for one month's furlough to veteran regiments.

On the 21st of April, the Governors of the states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin, then present at Washington, tendered to the President an extra service of troops from the states thus represented, for the term of one hundred d y

The limited time allowed for organization did not permit the full results contemplated in this state. Three regiments were however forwarded, uniting their energies with those already in the field, and were thus permitted to share in the glory of a successful campaign.

Under the act of Congress approved July 4th, 1864, President Lincoln issued the call of July 18th, for five hundred thousand (500,000) volunteers, for one, two or three years' service; with order that after fifty days from the date of said call, a draft of troops for one year's service should be made to fill the quota of any sub-district, then deficient in volunteers. The quota assigned to Wisconsin was nineteen thousand and thirty-two (19,032.) It was manifest that if the figures were correct the basis of the calculation was wrong, and active steps were taken to discover wherein. Through correspondence and personal visitation at Washington, the error was found to exist in an incorrect enrollment, and failure to properly credit the state with troops before furnished. Correction was made, reducing the quota of the state to fifteen thousand three hundred and forty-one (15,341) and giving further credits to apply, of four thousand six hundred and fifty-eight (4,658.)

Under this call the Forty-second, Forty-third, Forty-fourth and Forty-fifth regiments were recruited, the Fifth reorganized and the battalion (four companies) of heavy artillery increased to a full regiment.

Drafting was commenced under this call on the ninth of November, and continued in different portions of the state until the early part of 1865. The results to the General Government from a draft of seventeen thousand five hundred and thirty-four (17,534) were three thousand four hundred and thirty-nine (3,439) drafted men and substitutes; four non-combatants paying a commutation of twelve hundred dollars ($1,200.) The total of recruits during the year for old and new organizations numbered twenty-seven thousand two hundred and sixty-two (27,262) men and the grand total furnished the General Government up to the end of this year, seventy-seven thousand four hundred and twenty-one (77,421.)

The labors of both the executive and this office during the year were rendered more difficult and arduous owing to the fact that while the General Government appealed to and relied upon the state authorities for assistance and success in their labors—the machinery by which it was to be accomplished had been placed by the War Department mainly in the hands of United States officers over whom the state had no control, and to whom orders for the advancement of the service in any new direction must emanate from the War Department. Delay was thus sometimes occasioned while the desirability for specific action should be made apparent to the Department at Washington.

The record of state action in 1865 is so fully set forth in detail in the accompanying report, that a repetition of any portion of it in this connection is deemed unnecessary.

The following recapitulation of the statements and schedules to which reference is made therein, is respectfully submitted.

A—General orders.

B—Schedule showing the whole quota of the several sub-districts in the state, under the calls of February 1st, March 14th, July 18th and December 19th, 1864; also the quota of the several congressional districts under calls prior to October 12th, 1863, with the total credit to each, as compiled from the records of this office

C—Exhibit, showing arm and term of service; date and place of muster-in; date of departure from the state; aggregate of each organization; first commanding officer, and date of muster-out of each organization.

D—List of Wisconsin dead at Andersonville, Ga.

E—Regimental roster, with casualties in each regiment appended.

F—Alphabetical list and index of officers.

IN CONCLUSION:

While with welcoming plaudits we receive our returning heroes, who once more mingle with us, and, forgetful of war's alarms, tread again the paths of peaceful industry; let us remember that to achieve these glorious triumphs, thousands have sealed the priceless legacy with their lives. While we hallow their memories, thankful that the sacrifice was not in vain, let us gratefully accept the duty laid upon us, to properly protect, maintain and educate the helpless ones and orphans of those through whose sacrifice we are secured in the enjoyment of national unity and peace.

And while we rejoice over a rebellion conquered, the curse of human slavery removed, and our national integrity preserved, with the starry emblem of our nation's love restored and floating over every state from the Lakes to the Gulf; let us, with devout gratitude to the Almighty for deliverance from the further evils of war, and fervent charity for our misguided countrymen; with nobler conceptions of individual duty and national destiny, seek by our common efforts to secure in the future, that which has been our boast in the past: LIBERTY AND UNION: NOW AND FOREVER; ONE AND INSEPARABLE!

Thanking your Excellency for the uniform courtesy and kindness shown to me in my endeavors to assist in the arduous labors of your administration.

I have the honor to be,

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

SCHEDULE "A."

GENERAL ORDERS.

HEADQUARTERS STATE OF WISCONSIN,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Madison, January 3, 1863.

General Orders, No. 1.

Under the call of the President of the United States, dated December 19, 1864, for 300,000 volunteers, the quota assigned to Wisconsin is seventeen thousand eight hundred and five (17,805). The number may be raised by voluntary enlistment in any of the old regiments or batteries now in service, or in the Forty-sixth regiment of infantry, herein authorized, for terms of service of one, two or three years. If the quota is not filled by voluntary enlistment by the fifteenth of February prox., draft will be made by the General Government to supply the deficiency then existing in sub-districts. The quotas of the several towns and wards in the state under this call, will be assigned by the District Provost Marshals of the respective districts, and will be announced as soon as completed.

Authority having been given by the War Department for the organization of new regiments of infantry from this state, the Governor directs:

I.—The immediate organization of the Forty-sixth infantry, to serve for one year, unless sooner discharged, the company and regimental organizations to conform to the existing regulations of the War Department.

II.—A second lieutenant will be immediately commissioned, and conditionally mustered for each company, under the provisions of General Orders No. 131, current series, for the recruitment of the company, under letters of instructions issued by the superintendent of the recruiting service. Under present orders from the War Department, all other recruiting appointments are prohibited.

III.—Volunteers under this call will receive the bounty one, two and three hundred dollars, for the respective terms of service of one, two and three years, as provided by the General Government, one-third of which will be paid by the mustering and disbursing officer, when the company is completed, and those having families dependent will receive the benefits provided by the state from the war fund.

IV.—All incomplete companies and squads existing on the 7th of February prox., will be consolidated so as to form and be mustered in with complete regimental organizations.

V.—Volunteers in old or new organizations will be credited to the various sub-districts of the state which they may give as a residence at the time of enlistment.

VI.—The camp of rendezvous is hereby designated at Camp Randall, in Madison.

VII. Under existing orders from the War Department, all recruiting appointments heretofore issued by the Governor, excepting only those issued for recruiting in rebel states, are hereby revoked.

By order of the Governor:

AUG. GAYLORD,
Adjutant General.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS STATE OF WISCONSIN,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Madison, January 5, 1865.

General Orders, No. 2.

I.—In pursuance of authority from the War Department for the organization of new regiments of infantry from this state, the Governor directs the immediate organization of the Forty-seventh regiment volunteer infantry.

II.—The general plan of organization will conform to the provisions set forth in General Orders No. 1, current series, from this office, authorizing the Forty-sixth regiment.

III.—The camp of rendezvous will be at Camp Randall, in Madison.

By order of the Governor:

AUG. GAYLORD,
Adjutant General.

General Orders, No. 8.

The attention of veterans and citizens generally throughout the state, is called to the organization known as "Hancock's Veteran Corps," now recruiting, and for which offices have been established in this state for the purpose of promoting enlistments.

The inducements for service in this organization are presented in the following extracts from official circulars and communications of the War Department:

Circular, No. 3.

HEADQUARTERS, FIRST ARMY CORPS.

"1. Any veteran who has served two years, has been honorably discharged, and is physically qualified, may enlist in the corps for one, two and three years. * * *

"3. Those enlisting will receive from the Government a bounty of $300 as soon as they are mustered, and, in addition, the regular installments from the Government in proportion to the period of enlistment, as follows:

$100 for one years' service, one-third paid on enlistment.
$200 for two years' service, one-third on enlistmant.
$300 for three years' service, one-third on enlistment. * * *

"7. The best arms in the possession of the government will be furnished these troops, and they will be allowed to retain their arms when honorably discharged.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
PROVOST MARSHAL GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., Jan, 6, 1865

LIEUTENANT COLONEL CHARLES S. LOVELL,
A. A. Provost Marshal General, Madison, Wis:

"COLONEL: Instead of forwarding recruits for General Hancock's corps individually and before enlistment to Washington, you are directed to authorize your Provost Marshals to receive and enlist such recruits and forward them to the general rendezvous. After they arrive there, and enough men have been enlisted to form a company of legal strength, you will organize them into companies, muster them into United States' service, and send each company as soon as mustered to Washington. They will not receive the government bounty until they arrive here, but local bounties may be paid them before they leave the state.

"The officers of the First Corps, detailed on recruiting service in your state, will report to you, and conduct themselves in the procuration of recruits under your direction.

"The time for organizing the First Corps has been extended to a time not yet fixed.

Very respectfully, &c.,
(Signed) JAMES B. FRY,
Provost Marshal General.

By the above extracts it will be seen that persons enlisting in this corps may be credited at the time of muster by district provost marshals, to the place of actual residence in the state, in the same manner as in enlistments for all other organizations

Any miasprehension upon this subject should be removed.

There were, on the first of January, estimated to be three thousand discharged veterans in this state, from whom this corps may receive large additions. The organization is one peculiarly attractive to this class of persons, and under the leadership of its renowned commander, Major General Hancock, will constitute a force invincible, and immortal in the history of the war.

Further information relative to this organization may be obtained of Lieutenant Colonel Charles S. Lovell, U. S. A., Superintendent of recruiting service, Major George H. Otis, or the district provost marshals of the several congressional districts.

I. Attention of the commanding officers of the organized militia companies of the state is hereby directed to the following section of the present militia law, to wit:

"Section 24. It shall be the duty of each and every commanding officer of any organized company in this state, on or before the last Mondays of April and September of each year, to muster his company, and to make out in triplicate, muster rolls, setting forth the names and number of the members of his company, the officers in the order of their rank, and the privates in alphabetical order, one of which muster rolls, duly certified, he shall transmit through his commanding officer, to the Adjutant General of the state. He shall file one in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court of his county, and he shall keep the other as a voucher for himself. If such company shall form a part of any organized battalion or regiment, the commanding officer thereof shall transmit the same, with a muster roll of the field and staff officers of his battalion or regiment, to the Adjutant General of the state. It shall also be the duty of every such commanding officer of a company, at the time of making said muster roll, to make duplicate lists of all arms, accoutrements, ordnance and ordnance stores, and other property belonging to the state, in his possession, one of which lists, duly certified, he shall transmit through his commanding officer, to the Quartermaster General, and he shall keep the other as a voucher for himself. If such company shall form a part of an organized battalion or regiment, the commanding officer of the regiment shall transmit the same, with a list of all the military property of the state in his possession, to the Quartermaster General."

II. Commandants of companies will transmit the copy of muster roll designed for this office, to the Adjutant General direct, and the list of arms, ordnance, ordnance stores and accoutrements, designed for the Quartermaster General, to that officer direct, at Madison,

III. Blank rolls are herewith enclosed, and officers in charge will report in obedience to the above requirement without delay, giving the actual condition of each company at the date of muster.

IV. In the absence of commissioned officers, the senior non-commissioned officer will be held to the performance of this duty.

It being evident from frequent inquiries that a misapprehension still exists in some localities of the state relative to the credits of recruits under the present call, attention is hereby directed to the following section of the act of congress, approved March 3d, 1865, regulating such credits:

"Section 14. And be it further enacted, That hereafter all persons mustered into the military or naval service, whether as volunteers, substitutes, representatives or otherwise, shall be credited to the state, and to the ward, township, precinct or other enrollment sub-district, where such persons belong by actual residence, (if such persons have an actual residence within the United States), and where such persons were or shall be enrolled, (if liable to enrollment), and it is hereby made the duty of the Provost Marshal General to make such rules and give such instructions to the several provost marshals, boards of enrollment and mustering officers as shall be necessary for the faithful enforcement of the provisions of this section, to the end that fair and just credit shall be given to every section of the country: Provided, That in any call for troops hereafter, no county, town, township, ward, precinct or election district, shall have credit except for men actually furnished on said call, or the preceding call, by said county, town, township, ward, precinct or election district, and mustered into the military or naval service on the quota thereof."

From the provisions of the foregoing section, it is evident that the purchase of recruits from any sub-district, to secure credit therefor in any other than that which is their actual residence, will result only in the loss of credit of such recruits.

That these difficulties may be obviated, the public are again notified, and that all credits thus secured since the 13th instant must conform to the provisions of the act before mentioned.

The following communication from Major General G. A. Custer is published for the information of all concerned, and attention invited to the provisions of the act of Congress to which reference is made, to wit:

"Section 21. And be it further enacted, That in addition to the other lawful penalties of the crime of desertion from the military or naval service, all persons who have deserted the military or naval service of the United States, who shall not return to said service, or report themselves to a provost marshal within sixty days after the proclamation hereinafter mentioned, shall be deemed and taken to have voluntarily relinquished and forfeited their rights of citizenship and their rights to become citizens; and such deserters shall be forever incapable of holding any office of trust or profit under the United States, or of exercising any of the rights of citizens thereof; and all persons who shall hereafter desert the military or naval service, and all persons who being duly enrolled shall depart the jurisdiction of the district in which he is enrolled, or go beyond the limits of the United States, with intent to avoid any draft into the military or naval service, duly ordered, shall be liable to the penalties of this section.

"And the President is hereby authorized and required forthwith, on the passage of this act, to issue his proclamation, setting forth the provisions of this section, in which proclamation the President is requested to notify all deserters returning within sixty days, as aforesaid, that they shall be pardoned on condition of returning to their regiments and companies, or to such other organizations as they may be assigned to, until they shall have served for a period of time equal to their original term of enlistment."

To discharged Wisconsin soldiers:

It having become evident that there are persons in this state seeking to take advantage of ignorant or thoughtless soldiers in the purchase of discharge papers, this is to caution all soldiers against parting with their discharge papers under any consideration whatever.

It is not at all improbable that Congress will at an early day recognize the services, at least of those who, enlisting in the first years of the rebellion, did not receive the large bounties of the latter years,—and perhaps all others—by a grant of Government lands.

Such grants, or any subsequent bounties, can be claimed only upon proper proof, in which your discharge paper will be required, and the soldier who sells his, puts his title to any such benefits entirely beyond recovery, excepting in the purchase back again of the discharge at such an extravagant rate as the speculator may impose.

Aside from the money value which may be attached to an honorable discharge from the service, in the future, it will have to those who shall come after you, if not now to yourselves, a value beyond that of money.

It will be treasured among the sacred mementos of the past, and your name therein recognized as among the patriot heroes who left home and the pleasant paths of peace, to risk all for the laws and liberties of the Commonwealth, and whose valor has stricken down forever the envenomed foes of the Republic.

In any view of the matter, your discharge paper is worth more to you than to any one else. The person who seeks to purchase it of you has no good object in view. Do not part with it.

By order of the Governor:

AUG. GAYLORD,
Adjutant General.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF WISCONSIN,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Madison, September 13, 1865.

General Orders, No. 14.

To Wisconsin Soldiers remaining in Service:

The Governor is in frequent receipt of letters from members of regiments remaining in the service, complaining of their detention, charging the delay in muster-out to the desire of their commanding officer to remain in the service, and asking the Governor to make application to the War Department for their discharge. While it is believed that these statements and requests are dictated by a laudable desire to return to their homes and civil life, it is also believed that they are often based upon a misunderstanding of the real facts in the case.

The General Government is not dependent upon the regimental officers for its information as to the needs of the service, much less does it consult their wishes for detention or discharge. Their anxiety to leave the service is in many cases likely to be quite as great as is your own.

They, like yourselves, are retained in the service because those in authority, whose advantages are best for judging of the necessities of the case, deem your presence in the service still desirable; and while it might be agreeable to know the exact reason of your detention, the good soldier is not likely to seriously question the fact.

Of the fifty Wisconsin regiments in the field on the first day of June last, but ten remain at this date, which are not under orders for muster-out and return home, and the number is constantly decreasing. If the regiments of other states have been reduced correspondingly, there should readily be found a reason for your detention in the service, in the inability of the government to perform the necessary labor of disbanding the whole Union army in four months, even were it deemed desirable.

No authority other than that of the War Department can direct your discharge. The Governor has made, and will continue to make every proper effort with the War Department to secure the earliest discharge of all Wisconsin organizations. This has been done by request in person at the department, in June last, and subsequently by letters setting forth the agricultural needs of the state, with other reasons. The reply has uniformly been that our regiments will be discharged just as fast as the needs of the service will permit, and there is evidence that this is being done. All cannot be first, and if you chance to be among the later ones, it is hoped, in view of the prospect of your speedy return, that somewhat of that patience which has characterized your service under greater discomforts and trials, may be manifested in this detention; that no insubordination, much less that any mutinous spirit shall be displayed beclouding, or in any degree causing the fair fame of Wisconsin to suffer through any mistaken action on your part. You are earnestly advised to await patiently the orders of the commanding general of the army, whose valor and fidelity you have so often applauded, and whose judgment of the necessities in the case you should now accept with confidence.

By order of the Governor:

AUG. GAYLORD,
Adjutant General.

General Orders, }
No. 15. }

In view of the present and prospective demand upon this office for certificates to facilitate the collection of bounty, back pay or pensions due to soldiers, or to the families of soldiers, formerly in the United States service from this state; and in order that the parties interested may be protected against loss through the action of unauthorized and unprincipled agents, the following regulations are announced, and will hereafter govern in the issue of certificates from this office:

First—All claim agents asking for information, are required to file in this office evidence that they have taken out a license to act as such, under the existing laws of Congress, authorizing such action.

Secondly—All claim agents asking for certificates or information from the records of this office, must furnish evidence from the proper claimant that such agent is duly authorized to act for and in his or her behalf, either by power of attorney or legal certificate, to be filed with the application.

These rules are not intended, and will in no way interfere with, the giving of information to the families of soldiers, relative to the service or death of those in whom they are interested. Such information will be given upon application by relatives, but certificates upon which to base a claim for local bounty, state aid, or against the General Government, will be issued only upon proper evidence that the party making application is the rightful claimant or a legally authorized attorney.

Soldiers, and relatives of deceased soldiers are advised to exceeding caution in the selection of agents for the transaction of this business, that it may fall into the hands of only responsible and honest men.

By order of the Governor:

AUG. GAYLORD,
Adjutant General.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

QUARTERMASTER GENERAL

OF THE

STATE OF WISCONSIN.

FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING SEPTEMBER 30, 1865.

QUARTERMASTER GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Madison, October 1st, 1865.

His Excellency, JAMES T. LEWIS, Governor of Wisconsin.

SIR:—I have the honor to submit, for the information of your Excellency, the following report of the transactions of this department, during the fiscal year terminating on the 30th of September, 1865.

Retaining the classification adopted by my predecessor, the business connected with the will first be presented.

Under the provisions of chapter 248 of the laws of 1864, flags have been purchased and forwarded to the following named volunteer organizations, viz.:

Third Veteran Infantry, one National Flag.
Sixth Veteran Infantry, one National Flag.
Ninth Veteran Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Fourteenth Veteran Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Fifteenth Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Nineteenth Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Twenty-third Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Twenty-fourth Infantry, one National Flag.
Thirty-sixth Infantry, one Regimental Flag.
Thirty-seventh Infantry, one National Flag.

These flags have been issued to the regiments indicated, in compliance with your orders, to replace those "worn and damaged by service," and the accounts therefor have been certified from this office to the Secretary of State, for audit, as directed by the statute, under which the flags were purchased.

During the year, the colors of the regiments, which these flags were issued to replace, were forwarded to this office, and having been thoroughly repaired, are now stored in the capitol.

Upon the return to the state of the various volunteer organizations, subsequent to their muster out of service, the regimental colors, except in a few instances, were placed, by orders of the War Department, in the hands of the chief mustering officer of Wisconsin, to be forwarded to Washington. Under the modification of these orders, procured by your Excellency, these flags have since been received from the chief mustering officer and are now in my possession.

The following statement exhibits in detail, the number of these relics received from all sources during the year, viz:

Third Infantry, two National and one Regimental Flag.
Fifth Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Sixth Infantry, two National and one Regimental Flag.
Seventh Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Eighth Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.

Fourteenth Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Fifteenth Infantry, two National and two Regimental Flags.
Sixteenth Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Seventeenth Infantry, one Regimental Flag, (green.)
Eighteenth Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Nineteenth Infantry, three National, two Regimental Flags and three Guidons.
Twentieth Infantry, two National and two Regimental Flags.
Twenty-first Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Twenty-second Infantry, two National and one Regimental Flag.
Twenty-third Infantry, two National and two Regimental Flags.
Twenty-fifth Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Twenty-sixth Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Twenty-seventh Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Twenty-eighth Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Twenty-ninth Infantry, two National and one Regimental Flag.
Thirtieth Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Thirty-first Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Thirty-second Infantry, one National, one Regimental Flag and two Guidons.
Thirty-third Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Thirty-sixth Infantry, two National, two Regimental Flags and two Guidons.
Thirty-seventh Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Thirty-eighth Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Forty-third Infantry, one National Flag
Forty-fourth Infantry, one National Flag and two Guidons.
Forty-fifth Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag, with two Guidons.
Forty-seventh Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Fifty-second Infantry, one National Flag.
Unknown, Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
First Cavalry, one Guidon.

Third Cavalry, two Guidons.
First Battery, one Guidon.
Tenth Battery, one Guidon.
Twelfth Battery, one National Flag.
First Heavy Artillery, two National and one Regimental Flag.

To this should be added the list of those previously received and reported by General Lund, making the total number now in my possession, forty-nine national flags, thirty-nine regimental flags and sixteen small flags and guidons, as exhibited in detail by the following:

First Infantry, one National Flag.
Second Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Third Infantry, three National and one Regimental Flag.
Fourth Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Fifth Infantry, two National and one Regimental Flag.
Sixth Infantry, three National and two Regimental Flags.

Twenty-fifth Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Twenty-sixth Infantry, two National and one Regimental Flag.
Twenty-seventh Infantry, one National and two Regimental Flags.
Twenty-eighth Infantry, two National and two Regimental Flags.
Twenty-ninth Infantry, three National and two Regimental Flags.
Thirtieth Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Thirty-first Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Thirty-second Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag, and two Guidons.
Thirty-third Infantry, two National and two Regimental Flags.
Thirty-sixth Infantry, two National and two Regimental Flags, and two Guidons.
Thirty-seventh Infantry, two National and one Regimental Flag.
Thirty-eighth Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Forty-third Infantry, one National Flag.
Forty-fourth Infantry, one National Flag and two Guidons.
Forty-fifth Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag, and two Guidons.
Forty-seventh Infantry, one National and one Regimental Flag.
Fifty-second Infantry, one National Flag.
Unknown, one National and one Regimental Flag.

First Cavalry, one Regimental Flag and one Guidon.
Third Cavalry, two Guidons.
First Battery, one Guidon.
Tenth Battery, one Guidon.
Twelfth Battery, one National Flag.
First Heavy Artillery, two National and one Regimental Flag.

At the date of the last Annual Report, there had been received the following described rebel trophies, captured by Wisconsin troops, and forwarded from the field to the Executive Office:

One Six-pounder, S. B. Bronze Field Gun, with Carriage, captured by the Fourteenth Infantry at the battle of Shiloh.

Two Regimental Flags with Staffs, complete, captured by the Fifteenth Infantry at Island No. 10.

One Cavalry Guidon, with Staff, captured by the Fifteenth Infantry at Union City, Ky.

One Battle Flag, captured by Private Rice, of company H, First Infantry, at the battle of Chaplin Hills, Ky.

One Battle Flag, captured by Private R. M. Clark, of company F, Eleventh Infantry, at Big Black River Bridge.

One Storm Flag, captured by the Seventeenth Infantry at Fort Beauregard, La.

One Regimental and one Battle Flag, captured by the Twenty-ninth Infantry in the rear of Vicksburg, during the siege of that city.

One Lance and one Pike, captured by the Twenty-seventh Infantry at Little Rock, Ark.

One Battle Flag, captured by Wagoner John Wolhaupt and Private William Ohler, of company B, Ninth Infantry, at the battle of Jenkins' Ferry, Ark.

One Flagstaff, captured by the Seventh Infantry on the Weldon Railroad, Va.

These trophies are now in my possession, with the exception of one flag above described as "one Regimental Flag, captured by the Twenty-ninth Infantry, in the rear of Vicksburg," which was lost under the following circumstances. By direction of your Excellency, the entire collection of Wisconsin flags and trophies was forwarded by me to Chicago in the latter part of May last, for the purpose of exhibition at the fair held in that city, by the Northwestern Sanitary Commission, in aid of the "Soldiers' Home," with the condition prescribed by your Excellency that they should be returned in time to permit of their being sent to Milwaukee, for a similar purpose.

At the termination of the fair in Chicago, the flag could not be found, and after diligent search the president of the department, to whose custody these articles were confided, addressed to me the following letter, which is respectfully submitted as the only explanation of the loss, which can be offered:

COPY.

CHICAGO, July 1st, 1865.

J. M. LYNCH, Quartermaster General of Wisconsin:

DEAR SIR:—I regret to inform you that one of the rebel flags, loaned by you for the use of the late Sanitary Fair at Chicago, cannot be found.

Respectfully yours, &c.,

(Signed) JAMES B. BRADWELL,*

Ch'n of Arms and Trophy Department of late Fair.

It is proper to add that in accordance with your Excellency's instructions, these arms and trophies were forwarded, on the 22d of June to Milwaukee, and upon the conclusion of the fair at that place, were promptly returned in good order, to this office.

"Old Abe," the live eagle of the Eighth Wisconsin Infantry, has been properly cared for during the year.

On the return of the several volunteer organizations to this city, for the purpose of final payment and discharge, the troops have been—under your Excellency's directions—furnished with meals at the Railway Hotel, and the accounts for these expenditures, with those incurred for the public reception of such troops, have been examined and certified from this department to the Secretary of State, for audit.

So far as my observation has extended, these entertainments have been highly satisfactory to the soldiers, who were thus greeted upon their arrival in the state, with an earnest of the heartfelt welcome, which they were entitled to expect at the homes, they had sacrificed so much to defend.

The following described articles of equipage, originally purchased for the outfit of Wisconsin Volunteers, remain on hand:

	ARTICLES.	CONDITION
1	Band Instruments, set, from 13th Infantry	Unserviceable
23	Bayonet Scabbards	New
1450	Button Boards	New
112	Canteens, condemned and samples	Not used

12	Palm thimbles	New
1	Sack, tent cords and fixtures	New
161	Stevens' Sword Exercise, copies	New
2	Tents, wall, with poles	Unserviceable
20	Tents, wedge, with poles	Unserviceable
50	Waist belts	New

*In another note, Judge Bradwell added that it was his intention to pursue further inquiry for the missing trophy, which was perhaps packed by mistake with collections from other states, or from the War Department, so that the flag may ultimately be recovered.

A number of boxes of pr operty, which had been forwarded some time previously from the Third Wisconsin Infantry, were placed in my possession, upon the payment of certain charges for transportation by special act of the legislature.

The property was accompanied by no invoice or other paper to show its character, and upon examination was found to consist of the following articles, which have been cared for as well as the means at my disposal would permit.

STATE MILITIA.

In connection with the State Militia, the business of this office has been limited to the Ordnance Department, of which transactions the statements and accounts submitted herewith exhibit a detailed statement.

Schedule "A," exhibits in detail, the property received during the year, including ordnance and stores returned by the State Militia to the State, with property received from the United States, upon the quota of arms due to Wisconsin, under the act of Congress of 1808.

Schedule "B," exhibits the property issued during the year, in compliance with the order of your excellency. In this case, but one receipt was forwarded to this office, and my application to the company commander for the duplicate receipt having failed, I have filed with the Secretary of State an attested copy of the receipt forwarded.

Schedule "C," Property account; exhibiting in detail the number of each article of property on hand and received during the year, the number of each issued and expended for the same time, together with the balance now remaining in my possession.

Schedule "D," exhibits the condition of the property now on hand.

Schedule "E," exhibits the condition of the property issued, so far as the same has been reported to this office.

Schedule "F," exhibits in a condensed form, the number of each article comprising the military property of the State, including that issued to companies and individuals, with the amount of each remaining on hand at this date.

Schedule "G," Armory account; showing in detail the tools and materials purchased and expended during the year, and the amount on hand at present.

The total amount of expenses incurred during the year under the direction of this department, the accounts for which have been duly examined and certified for audit to the Secretary of State, may be ascertained from the following brief synopsis:

Purchase of Flags	$2,151 75
Transportation of Flags	54 65
		$2 206 40
Transportation of State Arms, &c		53 39
Reception of Troops, meals	$7,390 40
Reception of Troops, salutes, &c	222 29
		*7,612 69
Armory account; Tools and Materials purchased		26 11
Eagle Account		51 82
National Salutes, (contingent fund)		303 70
Salaries		1,621 31
		$11,875 42

In the early part of the year, a gunsmith was employed at the armory to assist in cleaning and repairing arms, but since the 19th of July the State Armorer, Mr. J. H. McFarland, has alone been engaged. His faithfulness and integrity in the discharge of his various duties, are worthy of the highest commendation.

During the year, the state has been indebted to the continued courtesy of Captain N. B. Van Slyke and Captain John H. Brown, Assistant Quartermasters U. S. Army at this post, for the use of a building at Camp Randall, for the storage of the fixed ammunition belonging to the State.

It is respectfully submitted for the consideration of your excellency, that proper provisions for the permanent safety and display of the flags of our returned Wisconsin Volunteers, should receive the early attention of the legislature.

These battle scarred evidences of devotion to the cause of National integrity, consecrated by the sacred memories, which the valor of Wisconsin soldiers has twined around them, require no feeble words of mine to appreciate their value. Their language of patriotism needs no interpreter, and it would seem eminently proper that, in the completion of our State Capitol, an appropriate place should be specially reserved for their permanent display and preservation.

*The number of troops received at this place was seventeen thousand six hundred and ninety-four (17,694), thus showing an average expense of $0.4302 for each.

Regarding the desirableness of a thoroughly digested Militia Law, much has been already said, and the subject will doubtless receive the attention of the Legislature. It becomes my duty, however, to submit for your excellency's consideration, a suggestion regarding the present law: so far as it affects the operations of this office.

Under its provisions, property of great value is issued to the militia, by order of the executive, and it farther provides that semi-annual reports of the condition of such property, be forwarded to this office, but in the event of failure to comply with this provision, no penalty is specified for such neglect of duty.

During the past year, comparatively few of those to whom arms and accoutrements had been issued, have seen fit to comply with the requirements of the law in this respect, in consequence of which I am unable in several instances, to report the present condition of the property.

It is quite possible that an explanation of the failure in this regard, may be found in the fact that under the frequent calls for volunteers by the General Government during the first half of the year, the State Militia was necessarily disorganized by the enlistment of the men whose names were borne upon the rolls; so that, in a great majority of instances, the company for a long time had only a nominal existence.

The manner of transferring the accountability for military property, upon the promotion or resignation of the officer to whom it was originally issued, would seem to be also a proper subject for legislative action.

Upon the promotion, resignation or decease of an officer accountable for State property, it would seem proper that the officer next in rank should, by specific provision of law, be held responsible for the safety of the company (or State) property, and that it should be his duty to immediately take an inventory of property thus coming into his possession. Of this inventory or receipt, showing the extent of his liability, a duplicate should in every instance, be promptly forwarded to this office. The duty of the Quartermaster General, in relation to articles found to be missing, on the return of property from militia companies, should also be specified.

I can add nothing to the remarks contained in former reports from this office relative to the great necessity existing for a State Arsenal and proper magazine building, without which it is impossible to take proper care of the arms and other military property of the State.

With much pleasure I acknowledge my indebtedness to General N. F. Lund, for his courtesy and valuable suggestions as to the manner of conducting the business of the office.

I am, Governor, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant.

J. M. LYNCH,
Quartermaster General.

STATEMENT:—Showing the condition of the Ordnance, Arms and Military Property, remaining on hand at the Armory, October 2d, 1865.

Schedule "D," property account, exhibits in detail the number of each article of property remaining on hand at the armory, classified as serviceable and unserviceable.

The ordnance and ordnance stores for artillery, with the equipments and appendages for infantry and riflemen, are in good condition and ready for issue, with the exception of such as are classed as "unserviceable," much of the property being new.

Of the small arms, classed as serviceable, a portion require to be thoroughly cleaned, and a small number need slight repairs.

The small arms classed as "unserviceable," are in the worst possible condition, being broken and damaged in every manner, and are worth little, if anything, more than the value of the raw materials composing them.

The following exhibits the present condition of those now on and:

MUSKETS, RIFLED MUSKETS AND RIFLES.	Number.	Total.
In good condition, ready for issue,	1, 365
To be cleaned and repaired,	763
Unserviceable,	566
		2, 694
SWORDS AND SABRES.
In good condition, ready for issue,	75
To be cleaned and repaired,	47
Unserviceable,	24

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

Surgeon General of the State of Wisconsin,

FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING SEPTEMBER 30, 1865.

SURGEON GENERAL'S OFFICE,

Milwaukee, December 31st, 1865.

To his Excellency JAMES T. LEWIS, Governor of Wisconsin:

SIR:—In my annual report of December 31st, 1864, I ventured the prediction of a speedy and glorious termination of the great conflict then raging fearfully throughout the country; in view of which fact, I felt encouraged to go on in the discharge of the duties of my position, as best I might, until the long wished-for time should arrive. In a little over three months from that date the surrender of the rebel general Lee and his army to our forces virtually ended the war. One universal burst of thanksgiving and praise to God, the army, the navy and government, welled up from every loyal and true heart in the land; for preserving in its perfect integrity our national existence; for securing to all our citizens the full enjoyment of their inalienable rights, for the establishment of the "sacred dogma of equality," as announced in the immortal declaration of independence, and for the signal vindication of the excellence and power of our republican form of government, which will hereafter stand a monument without spot or blemish, for the admiration, instruction and protection of mankind.

Desperate and protracted as the struggle has been, it is daily becoming more evident, that all the blood, time and treasure expended, was indispensable to the final settlement of the great questions involved, and now that the conflict of arms is over, may we, in the final closing up of this eventful period, be able to show to the world that the statesmanship, wisdom and patriotism of our rulers and legislators, is equal to the task before them; that they have length, breadth and depth of comprehension sufficient to measure, weigh and adjust all issues in such manner as shall best subserve the well being of the people and the government.

Immediately after the end of hostilities began the reduction of the army, and continued with unprecedented rapidity, until now over eight hundred thousand troops have been discharged, and the department is proceeding rapidly in the work of further reduction.

Following this reduction of the army, with equal celerity were the sick and wounded in hospitals returned to their respective states, or concentrated at other points nearer and more convenient, if unable to travel far enough to reach their homes, so that general hospitals disappeared like the armies that had supplied them with inmates. In this movement, Wisconsin was second to no other state. The visit made by your excellency, whom I had the honor and pleasure to accompany, reached nearly every hospital in the country containing Wisconsin soldiers. Vested with authority to return without delay to the state, all who were able to travel, the effect can scarcely be appreciated, except by those to whom the glad tidings were brought, or such others as were present to witness it. That out of the large number who, by this prompt movement, arrived at home months sooner than they otherwise could, many lives were saved, to say nothing of the gratification of an earlier return to others, I have no doubt.

This was the last and most satisfactory trip I took part in, connected with the war—being more a looker-on than active participant in the duties connected therewith. It also extended over a wider field than any before entered upon—embracing not only the hospitals at the great centers east of the Alleghanies, but those on the Gulf, at Mobile and New Orleans, as well as those on the line of the great river west, which, as above stated, comprised nearly all containing any considerable number of Wisconsin soldiers.

The great anxiety of a vast majority of the soldiers of the volunteer army, after the end of active hostilities, was to get home. This feeling was greatly intensified by confinement in hospitals, whether from sickness or wounds; whatever, therefore, increased the prospect for an early return home, was to them the pearl of great price. Under such circumstances, the effect of a visit from the chief executive officer of the state, the object of which was to gratify that intense desire, can be much more easily imagined than described. It can very readily be seen that my occupation was gone—having only little to do except to observe the powerful influence of mind under favorable impressions, over the "ills that flesh is heir to."

The result of the trip was most satisfactory. Hundreds of the sick and wounded from the various hospitals visited, returned to their homes on the very heels of the expedition, which commenced early in May and ended the last of June.

The United States general hospitals in Wisconsin have all been closed for several months—the inmates having mostly returned to their homes.

The surgeons and assistant surgeons of the medical staff of our state, like the great body of volunteers, have quietly returned to their former professional labors—in which field, and through the whole balance of their lives, I most cordially wish them all the happiness and success due to their patriotic labors whilst serving in the army of the Union.

The subjoined table contains all appointments, promotions, resignations, discharges, dismissals and deaths that have occurred in this department to date.

About the 20th of October, I had the honor to receive through the executive office, a copy of a letter to your excellency, from Hon. William H. Seward, Secretary of State, inviting your serious attention to an accompanying letter from the acting Surgeon General, U. S., "to whom had been referred a dispatch from the U. S. minister at Constantinople, relative to the ravages of the cholera in that quarter, &c." The acting Surgeon General recommended that the attention of the governors of the states be invited to the facts contained in said dispatch, with a view to the prompt establishment of rigid quarantine regulations to prevent if possible the introduction of the cholera into this country; your excellency referring the subject to me for such suggestions and recommendations as I might think proper to make in the premises.

Feeling no apprehension that the cholera would prevail epidemically in the United States, earlier than the warm season of 1866, I deemed it appropriate and believed it would be seasonable to introduce such remarks as I had to make upon the subject in my annual report, which arrangement I trust will meet your excellency's approbation.

From the Science and Practice of Medicine, by William Aiken M. D., I quote the best definition of cholera I have seen:

"A disease essentially of a miasmatic origin, developed under certain atmospheric and terrestrial local conditions in Europe, Asia and America, and capable of being propagated or diffused, to a certain extent over the surface of the earth, through the atmosphere or in some other way, and also by means of human intercourse between the healthy and the sick. It is characterized by premonitory diarrhoea, sudden muscular debility, tremors, vertigo, occasional nausea, and spasmodic griping pains in the bowels, depression of the functions of respiration and circulation and a sense of faintness; copious purging of servous fluid, succeeded by vomiting, and burning heat in the stomach; coldness and a dampness of the whole surface of the body; coldness and blueness of the lips and tongue; cold breath; a craving thirst; a feeble, rapid pulse; difficult and oppressed respiration, with extreme restlessness; suppressed urinary secretion; blueness of the entire surface of the body; a sunken appaling countenance; a peculiarly suppressed voice; a peculiar odor from the body; partial heats of the precordia and forehead; fatal collapse, or reaction or secondary fever," and I would add, occasional prompt recovery.

No one who has carefully read the above definition of cholera need ever mistake a case, although it be the first seen, and as comparatively very few of our population have ever seen cholera, which in its epidemic form is so rapidly fatal, that unless remedial measures are resorted to with the utmost promptitude—relief is not to be expected; hence the necessity for recognizing the first symptoms of an attack, when appropriate remedies are very generally successful; but where a brief delay would render the most efficacious means ineffectual. That as many as possible may be qualified to promptly recognize an attack in either themselves or friends, is my excuse for making this rather lengthy quotation.

It is not my purpose to enter into the history of this fearful epidemic, about which, both by professional and non-professional observers, volumes have been written, that is, enough to make volumes if brought together, within the past quarter of a century. Its eastern origin, as its name implies, "Asiatic cholera," or "cholera Indica," is very generally understood, and that within the present century it has several times spread rapidly over most of the habitable globe, is but too vividly remembered by many who have witnessed at least two of its visitations to our own country; but that it has become indigenous in many parts of Europe and even in America, is not so generally understood.

That sporadic cases of cholera occasionally appear in different parts of the United States, is a fact well known to the profession, and proves the correctness of Doct. Aikens' definition, that it is "developed under certain atmospheric and terrestrial local conditions, in Europe, Asia and America." Well marked cases of Asiatic cholera have appeared in many places in the United States during the past summer, three of which have come under my own observation—one on the Mississippi River, in the month of June, and two in Milwaukee in August—one of the latter fatal. All the cases of the past year no doubt originated in "local conditions," entirely independent of epidemic influence. Now, suppose in addition to the local causes which have proved sufficient in some parts of America to develope the disease, we permit the epidemic influence which is rapidly approaching us, and will most probably, in the summer and autumn of 1866, again sweep over the United States, to be superadded, the result will be that the combined power of the two causes will sweep thousands to their graves, who, by timely attention to the "local conditions," might have escaped without an attack. It is very certain, we cannot, in any appreciable degree, control the epidemic influence, about which we know little or nothing.

The "local conditions" or causes which surround us on all hands are quite different things. With these we are acquainted; we not only know their locality and nature, but how to remove or abate them. Is it not most clearly then the dictate of common sense to free ourselves from this powerful ally of the epidemic? Without this aid, it may pass from the country almost harmless; for no fact connected with the disease, is better established than that vast numbers of persons within its epidemic influence, by a general observance of the laws of health, escape its developement. Let it be distinctly understood, that the "local conditions" so frequently alluded to, mean filth in all its various forms, whether in privies, cesspools, dry wells, damp, unventilated, unclean cellars, undrained sloughs, exposed earth on which is thrown the various slops from the kitchen, etc., etc. All such are nuisances to be abated. In many cases this can best be done during the cold season. After the removal, such disinfectants as will deodorize and thoroughly neutralize every emanation calculated to vitiate the air and load it with the germs of disease, must be freely used; in short, such rigid police should be inaugurated by every family in the land, that the local conditions shall cease to exist.

Nor is this all, the laws of health more directly connected with each individual, in the observance of cleanliness, regularity and temperance in all things, are not to be neglected. Let no one be deceived; intemperate men, whether in the use of stimulating drinks, tobacco or any other vile habit they may have, such as drugging themselves with preventives, &c., will be very apt, according to their predilections and habits, to use and advise repeated potations of brandy, constant fumigation of tobacco smoke, or this or that nostrum, all well meant, but obviously damaging, and often under epidemic influence, the immediate exciting cause of the disease. Fear, by its depressing effects, is among the most frequent causes in developing cholera, and depends for its existence, more on the common fallacy, that it is taking or contagious, than on all its other supposed or real attributes. I am aware that some of the profession entertain the opinion that it is contagious. Of such I would enquire, why, in sporadic cases, is it not communicated to physicians, nurses, attendants and others exposed? Would small pox, in the midst of an unprotected community, end with the individual attacked? All who know anything on the subject, know it would not. Instead of everybody escaping, the rule would be, nearly everybody exposed would have the disease.

It certainly is not contagious in the common acceptation of the term; that is, it is not contagious as small pox, or other forms of disease universally recognized as such, are contagious. No one can question these facts in sporadic cases, and in its epidemic form the same facts exist. In 1849, I myself attended hundreds of cases in all stages of the epidemic, many of them being rapidly fatal, exposed to emanations of every description belonging to the worst forms of the disease. If contagious, why did I not contract the disease? I speak of myself, because these are facts about which I do know. The same is equally true of the profession generally throughout the country, and I may add, the world, wherever the cholera prevailed. Does this seem like contagion? It is true, a few doctors, nurses and attendants were attacked; not more, however, than would have been had the epidemic been influenza, or any other non-contagious disease.

I know of but one way to secure that perfection of police and general sanitary condition, indispensable to the protection of any or all communities, whether in cities, towns, villages or rural districts, and that is, impressing the fact on each individual family that their immunity from the ravages of this fell disease depends almost entirely on themselves. To this end I submit the following advice and direction, addressing myself to whom it concerns, that is, to every family in the state.

Examine critically every point about your premises, privies, cesspools, dry wells, cellars, the outlet of drains, whether in street or alley, decomposed garbage, manure, or any other nuisance. When submitted to such searching and earnest inspection, but few establishments will be found above sanitary criticisms. Having in this way discovered all the "local conditions" requiring attention, the next and important thing is to apply the correctives. During the winter is the time to abate many of the worst nuisances above enumerated, privies, cesspools, dry wells, damp, foul, unventilated cellars, etc. See to it that they are not only thoroughly cleared out, but that such disinfectants as quicklime, chloride of lime, or some of the metallic salts, as sulphate of iron, chloride of zinc, etc., are freely used. In the use of sulphate of iron and chloride of zinc, a pound of either to a gallon of water is a good proportion. Take care that the sulphate of iron is completely dissolved, and that the chloride of zinc is thoroughly mixed before using. If the material to be disinfected, has an offensive smell, go on with the process till it has entirely ceased. Heaps of manure, which are not or cannot be removed, or any other filth, so situated, should be covered with fresh burnt lime, or what is better, pulverized burnt charcoal. Any exposed earth soaked with slops, containing animal or vegetable matter, or both, requires the same treatment. Drains are best treated with chloride of lime, a pound of which will disinfect a thousand gallons of ordinary sewerage. These measures should be resorted to and thoroughly applied during the present winter, and on the opening of spring and approaching summer, with the increasing heat, the ratio of vigilance should be at least commensurate therewith.

Suppose we should be so fortunate as to escape the epidemic, will all this labor be lost? By no means, it is what should at all times be observed.

It is not to be supposed that in cities, towns and villages, nor even in the country, will every family put in practice the foregoing suggestions, and if they were to do so, still nuisances and sources of pestilence will be found on a larger scale than those already alluded to, which for their abatement require organized action. A heavy responsibility is resting on all municipal authorities throughout the land. If they neglect the duty of attending seasonably to all necessary police and sanitary measures, in anticipation of the approaching epidemic. Whatever of mortality results from such neglect must rest upon them. They cannot excuse themselves on the ground that lack of time, or want of seasonable notice, prevented, such notice was served many months since, and even now abundance of time yet remains, if proper energy and attention be devoted to the subject.

As a fair representation of the class of nuisances under consideration, take, for instance, the slaughter houses and their surroundings of the city of Milwaukee—and it is presumable they represent fairly the condition of such establishments elsewhere. There is, however, one feature that may be peculiar to the slaughtering establishments of this city which deserves especial attention. They are situated on the banks of the Menomonee River, which, at this place, runs through an extensive marsh, that since their erection, until recently, owing to the high stage of water in the lake, has been covered to a greater or less depth with water. For eighteen months or two years past the lake has been falling, so that the river is now within its banks, and an extensive surface exposed, that for a series of years has been absorbing all the various animal matters connected with extensive slaughtering establishments. This surface, exposed to the heat of the coming summer, which has hitherto had the protection of a covering of water, cannot fail to be a fruitful source of disease, whether cholera prevails epidemically or not, and demands, most emphatically, the attention of the city authorities. In addition to this, in most of the low and level parts of the city, foul drains and ponding of drainage, and general neglect of scavenging call for prompt attention.

In addition to all that can be done by individuals, families and public authorities, every city and town in the state should be divided into districts of suitable size. In each district a board of health should be organized, one of whose members should be a physician. The duties of this board should be to examine into the sanitary condition of the district; looking carefully to the condition of the poor; advising them in all matters connected with their health; ascertaining whether any premonitions of cholera exists among them, and advising and furnishing such remedies as are necessary to check the disease in season. At short stated periods these boards should report to the authorities, or a central board, during the continuance of the epidemic. Such proceedings will be attended by some expense, but they will prove a large economy in the end, should epidemic cholera call for them.

On the subject of quarantine and other regulations predicated on the contagious character of cholera, I have but little to say. Not believing it contagious, I, therefore, do not believe in the efficacy of such measures to prevent its introduction. Knowing nothing of the epidemic influence, nor of the means by which it spreads over continents and oceans—doubting even the idea that it is conveyed along the ordinary channels of travel either by land or water, with any more facility than in directions where such channels of intercourse do not exist. The reason why it appears under such circumstances, being the great numbers present, offering more channels for its developement and probably more "local conditions" favoring it. Entertaining such opinions, it would be great folly for me to offer any suggestions on the subject of preventing the introduction of the epidemic influence.

Here I intended to have closed my remarks on this important subject, but having just received through the post office a copy of a report by the "council of hygiene and public health of the citizens' association of New York, upon epidemic cholera and preventive measures," I am induced from the exalted professional standing of the committee, as well as from the excellence of the maxims appended to the report, which are as appropriate and valuable here as there, to make them also an appendix to the foregoing, believing they will greatly add to its value.

PRECAUTIONARY RULES AND DUTIES.

1. Avoid all causes of excessive nervous exhaustion; avoid intemperance in eating and drinking; live upon a nourishing diet, and keep the digestive functions in a healthful condition.

2. Avoid and discourage panic and needless anxiety where the epidemic is announced, remembering that in its premonitory stage cholera is generally curable, and that all the exciting causes of the malady can be avoided.

3. Promptly second the efforts of the public authorities in all enlightened plans for protecting the public health, especially in all that relates to civic cleanliness, the abatement of nuisances, and the proper care and feeding the poor.

4. If in business, or charged with any public or philanthropic duty, do not forsake your posts of personal or official labor, except when suffering from premonitory symptoms of cholera or other sickness.

5. Aid and encourage the removal and prevention of the localizing and exciting causes of cholera throughout the district in which you reside.

6. Give particular attention to the drainage, dryness and cleanliness of your premises and the neighborhood, and see to it that the water supply is both pure and sufficient.

7. Inculcate habits of personal neatness.

8. Avoid the employment of purgative drugs, except when prescribed by your physician.

9. Avoid and prevent effluvia from excrementitious matter, sewers, privies, or chamber vessels; frequently and thoroughly disinfect these sources from fever poison.

10. Insist upon the utmost cleanliness and purity of every portion of your apartments, furniture and domicile.

11. Thoroughly and frequently ventilate every apartment in the dwelling, even to the cellars, closets and vaults. This should be aided by fires in open fire-places, wherever available.

12. Carefully protect the body from sudden alteration of temperature. Wear flannel, and when exposed to changeable temperature, or suffering any disorder of the bowels, wear a broad flannel band, extending from the top of the hips to the middle of the body.

13. Be prudent in the use of food and beverages, being particularly attentive to the quality and digestibility.

14. Bear in mind the fact, that a painless diarrhoea is the most invariable precursor of cholera, and if not immediately and properly treated, it will more probably terminate fatally than favorably.

RULES TO BE OBSERVED IN CASE OF AN ATTACK BY CHOLERA.

1. Soon as attacked by the premonitory diarrhoea, or any symptoms of cholera, seek immediate repose in a recumbent posture, where warmth and a pure atmosphere will be enjoyed. Immediately procure competent medical attendance.

2. Let the excrementitious matters from the sick be disinfected in the vessel as soon as voided, by means of carbonate of lime, sulphate or proto-chloride of iron, coal tar, carbonic acid, or per manganate of potash; and let no person directly use the privy into which such materials are emptied, while cholera is prevailing. Whenever practicable, let the evacuated matter be deeply buried in the earth, and immediately covered with quick lime or coal tar and gravel.

3. Let all the vessels and clothing, that are used by the patients, be immediately cleansed with boiling water and soap, or alkaline chlorides or permanganates.

4. Preserve the utmost degree of personal cleanliness of the sick and their attendants.

I will end by quoting the concluding paragraph of the report:

"Every city and village in the land has a common interest with New York in the sanitary care and improvements that are now required for defence against cholera; for this metropolis is at once a chief centre of trade and of peril. In every city, town and domicile let the watchword be cleanse, cleanse, cleanse."

In submitting this, my last annual report connected with the rebellion, I cannot refrain from acknowledging my deep indebtedness to each respective state administration through the war. The kindness and courtesy uniformly extended by the chief executive and different state departments, have lightened all duties and responsibilities, and have been a constant incentive to faithfulness and perseverance to the end. Having now only to regret that more of utility does not remain behind,

I have the honor to be, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

E. B. WOLCOTT.

Surgeon General.

do not know that we ever handled a series uments which displayed less taste or good ent in their appearance and arrangement hese. The State of Wisconsin is too im- t a member of the sisterhood to be thus l down to the future; and we have no her tax-payers pay enough to have their done more creditably. But we take them find them; and here they are—an inside of Wisconsin, from the beginning of ntil the beginning of 1868, as that pic- s been drawn in her Governors' Messages the Reports of her Secretary of State, ate Treasurer, her School and University Commissioners, her Bank Comptroller, her ntendent of Public Instruction, her Re- of the University, her State Prison Com- er, her Trustees of the Blind Institute, stees of the Institute for Deaf and Dumb, jutant-general, her Trustees of the State al for the Insane, her Managers of the Reform School, her Regents of Normal s, her Geological Surveyor, her Commis- for locating State Reform School for Ju- her Quarter-master-general, her Surgeon- , etc.

hese are important to every one who de- examine Wisconsin State history, in all icate minutiæ, since 1859: to us, at this t, her Adjutant-general's Reports are most nt, illustrating, as they necessarily do, ch that others did in the service, who t in the Wisconsin line.

The first of the volumes named at the head, contains the Adjutant-general's Report for 1860—a production which is interesting to the student of the times only because it shows the condition of the State when she was pushed into the recent War. The second contains the Report for 1861, occupying just five pages, exclusive of the Schedules, in one of which are sketches, very brief in extent, but yet very important, of the various Regiments of Volunteers in the field. In the first of the two volumes of Documents "for the year 1863," is found the Report for 1862, in which the brief history of each Regiment, commenced in 1861, is continued; and to these are added the General Orders issued during the year, Rosters of the several State uniformed Companies and of the various Regiments of Volunteers in the field, Statistics of the latter Regiments, the dates of their departure from the State and how they were armed, Statistics of the Draft, etc. The second series of Reports "for "A. D., 1863," referred to at the head, is generally what it purports to be—for 1863; but the Adjutant-general's Report contains no more of the year's record than was included in that of the first nine months of the twelve—until the first of October. The Regimental sketches are made very much more complete in this than in the preceding Reports; the General Orders of the year are continued, in extenso; and the Roster of the State Militia, the Statistics of the Militia enrollment and those of the Draft, the Roster of the Volunteers in the Field, and the Statistics of the latter, are also continued from the preceding volumes. The Report for 1864, continues the historical sketches of Regiments in the field, the General Orders, and the various tables and Rosters hitherto referred to; and the Report for 1865 completes the record of the War, not merely with a continuation of the Regimental sketches, previously alluded to, but with the addition of a record of the dead of each Regiment, in all its gloomy minutiæ, a list of Federal Commissions bestowed on Wisconsin Officers, a brief review of the general history of the War, as far as it concerned Wisconsin, an alphabetical list of officers, with references to the pages of the particular Reports where their several individual records may be found, and the usual Rosters, General Orders, etc. The Reports for 1866 and 1867 are mere skeletons—the Roll of the Wisconsin dead who are buried in the various Cemeteries, which is appended to the last-named, being the only article of general interest which we see in them.

In all these Reports by the Adjutant-general, from that for 1860 to that for 1865, the records of the services in the field of the men of Wisconsin are very complete; and the general list of officers, alphabetically arranged, is highly l be seen that this bears the same title in substance as the preceding one.

s due to writers and students of Wisconsin's y in the War, that they should be informed here are two kinds of Reports from her ant-general's office; and that, as in the case ncroft's uncertain History, it will be neces- in order to avoid mistakes, to quote the n which has been employed.

first of these is the official Report, as ally presented and printed: the last is , informally, as "The Consolidated Re- ;" and was subsequently prepared, under ial Resolution of the Legislature (Joint tion, No. 6, A.) It contains, beside the ts of the regular Report for the year, "a int of so much of the Adjutant-general's orts for the years 1863 and 1864, as per- d to the regimental history, for the pur- of giving a connected narrative of each nization, during the entire term of ser- ;" and, if the regimental Histories which mbraced in the Reports for 1861 and 1862 en included, it would have truly presented act and useful record of all the Wiscon- ces, instead of a part, and for their "en- terms of service," instead of a portion, do not object to these books, nor to their ts, as a whole: we only regret that the ty of some underling should have imposed dissimilar volumes exactly the same title- and have thus exposed the plodding gal- e who shall hereafter undertake to write sin's history, honestly, to the mortifica- being charged by some upstart with hav- d from a volume and page which tell an different story. All this could have voided by telling the entire story on the ge of "The Consolidated Report," with- ry to any one.
